California State Board of Education Member Matt Navo Joins Dr. Mucerino on his Weekly Podcast to Update the Alvord and Riverside Community

In the interest of keeping everyone informed, AUSD began hosting podcasts streamed through YouTube in April, 2020. In addition to voice, email, text, and notifications via the mobile application, AUSD aims to keep their community connected to the school district and each other through these weekly podcasts. Superintendent Dr. Allan Mucerino hosts the podcasts and is joined, remotely, by guests.

This week's guests included four middle school students, a senior on her way to UCLA in the Fall, and Matt Navo, a member of the California State Board of Education, California's K-12 policy-making body for academic standards, curriculum, instructional materials, assessments and accountability.

Prior to his appointment to serve on State Board along with other distinguished educators, including State Board President Linda Darling-Hammond, Mr. Navo served as the superintendent of the Sanger Unified School District.
