

antonee.merritt@cabarrus.k12.nc.us

carmen.smith@cabarrus.k12.nc.us

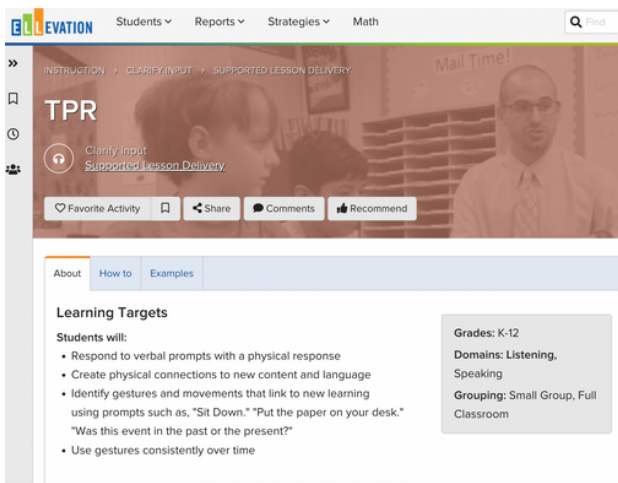

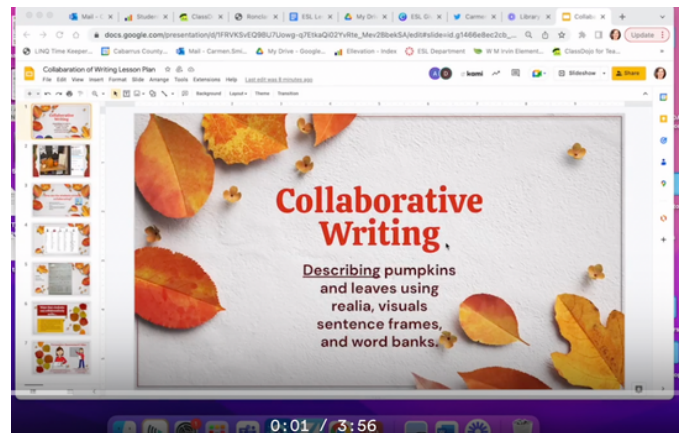

At our ESL PLC in November, we reflected on lessons in an effort to make them more collaborative for our students. Check out the brief description below of a scaffolded lesson that was recently used at Irvin and the strategies we added to increase students' collaborative writing and speaking skills:

THE GIFT OF UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

Here's an example of how we incorporate universal language in our EL classrooms. Our students have different levels of English language proficiency as well as different home languages. How do we accommodate all of them with the same lesson? Look at the video below:

Reply to this email to be entered into the drawing :)