- How will we know if they learn it?
- How will we respond when some students do not learn?

Potential for Child Find

PRACTICE POINTERS: CHILD FIND ISSUES

Be on the lookout for circumstances or behavior that signals the need for an evaluation, even when no one has requested one. These red flags might include:

- dramatically declining grades
- excessive absenteeism in tandem with a recent medical diagnosis
- sudden withdrawal from peer in combination with declining school performance; etc

Anxiety in School-Aged Youth Post Pandemic

A Look At The Numbers

Prior to the pandemic mental health concerns among youth were on the rise.

In the first 10 months of 2020, there was a 151% increase in concerns related to suicide, suicidal ideation and self-injury for youth ages 1-17 years old.

National survey estimates that 1 in 4 children report sleep problems due to worry, feeling unhappy and anxiousness.

Potential Factors Contributing to the Rise

Across the United States, approximately 200,000 children lost a parent or primary caregiver. Additionally, because of restrictions, typical practices for grieving were not allowed.

(<https://www.apa.org/monitor/2023/01/trends-improving-youth-mental-health>).

The CDC also reports that during the pandemic, 29% of U.S. high school students had a parent or caregiver who lost their job, 55% were emotionally abused by a parent or caregiver, and 11% were physically abused.

Adolescent Behaviors and Experiences Survey—United States, January–June 2021, CDC

Over or under-reacting to bells, physical contact, doors slamming, sudden movements

SECONDARY STUDENTS

Fear or worry about safety of self or others

Changes in behavior - decrease in attention or concentration, angry outbursts, withdrawal from others/activities, change in academic performance, irritability or absenteeism

Repetitive thoughts and comments about death or dying (writing, art about violent or morbid thoughts or internet searches)

Heightened difficulty with authority, redirection or criticism

Strategies for the School Environment (The National Child Traumatic Stress Network)

Maintain	Maintain routines-this communicates a message of safety
Provide	When possible, provide students with choices – this provides them with a feeling of control
Remember	Remember that disruptive behaviors may be an indicator of mental health
Be	Be sensitive to environmental cues and when possible, warn students if you are doing something out of the ordinary (turning off lights, making loud noises.)
Set	Set clear, firm limits for inappropriate behaviors and develop logical, rather than punitive, consequences.

Next Steps in Partnership with Parent/Guardian

- A referral to Chino Human Services – The student appears to have a lower level of need and may benefit from short-term counseling.
- A referral to Behavioral Health - The student appears to be impacted more significantly by mental health (i.e. may have multiple threat screeners, self-injurious behaviors etc.), may need longer-term care and has Medi-Cal.
- A referral to the Behavior Intervention Associate Counseling Program - The student may be on the waiting list for Chino Human Services, may need longer-term care, or have significant mental health concerns and may/may not have Medi-Cal.
- A referral for Educationally Related Mental Health Services (ERMHS) - The student is currently receiving Special Education services and concerns have not improved with prior intervention OR the concerns have worsened significantly and quickly before other interventions could be attempted.
