Dr. Phil Triolo

Class of 1972

Phil proudly remembers his basketball team winning four straight league championships and the Jazz Ensemble taking home an award in a music competition. He attended Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute earning a B.S. in biomedical engineering. Phil received his M.S. and Ph.D. in bioengineering from the University of Utah. He is currently President of his own consulting company which prepares submissions to the Food and Drug Administration to gain approval for new cardio-vascular medical devices, and provides guidance on FDA regulatory requirements. He is active in Utah's environmental community providing outdoor adventures for people with disabilities.

“Never let anyone else decide your future.”
