Theodore Bristol

Class of 1968

Ted has vivid memories of playing varsity football and baseball. He recalls walking across the field from the Junior High School to become a member of Copiague High School's first graduating class. Ted participated in his Senior Class Play, "Guys and Dolls," and played drums in the High School Band. He obtained his B.A. in physical education from SUNY College at Cortland, his Master's Degree in health education from Adelphi University, and his professional diploma in educational administration from Long Island University – C.W. Post. Now as an Assistant Principal, he has dedicated the past 25 years to his high school alma mater. Ted is married and has two children.

"The only certain measure of success is to render more and better service than is expected of you."
