THE PROGRAM

FREEDOM TO EXPLORE

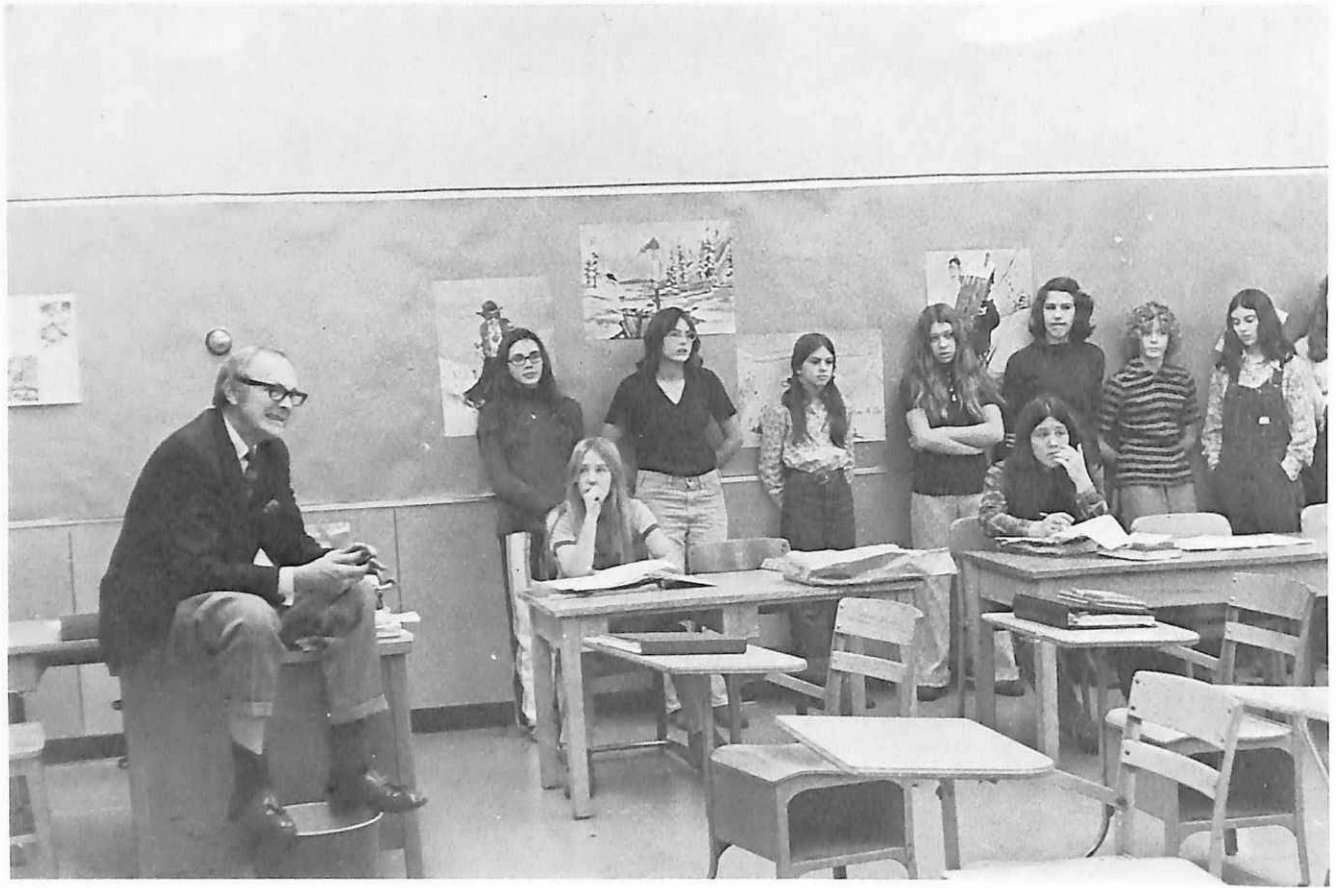

This summer, after a three year trial, the Roosevelt program was renewed indefinitely. This program, unlike others, gives the student the responsibility to choose and register for his own classes very quarter, and the power to vote at faculty meetings.

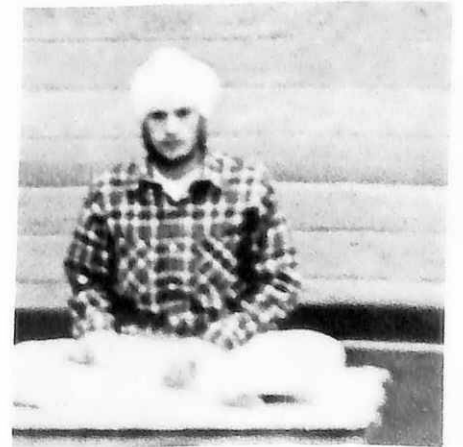

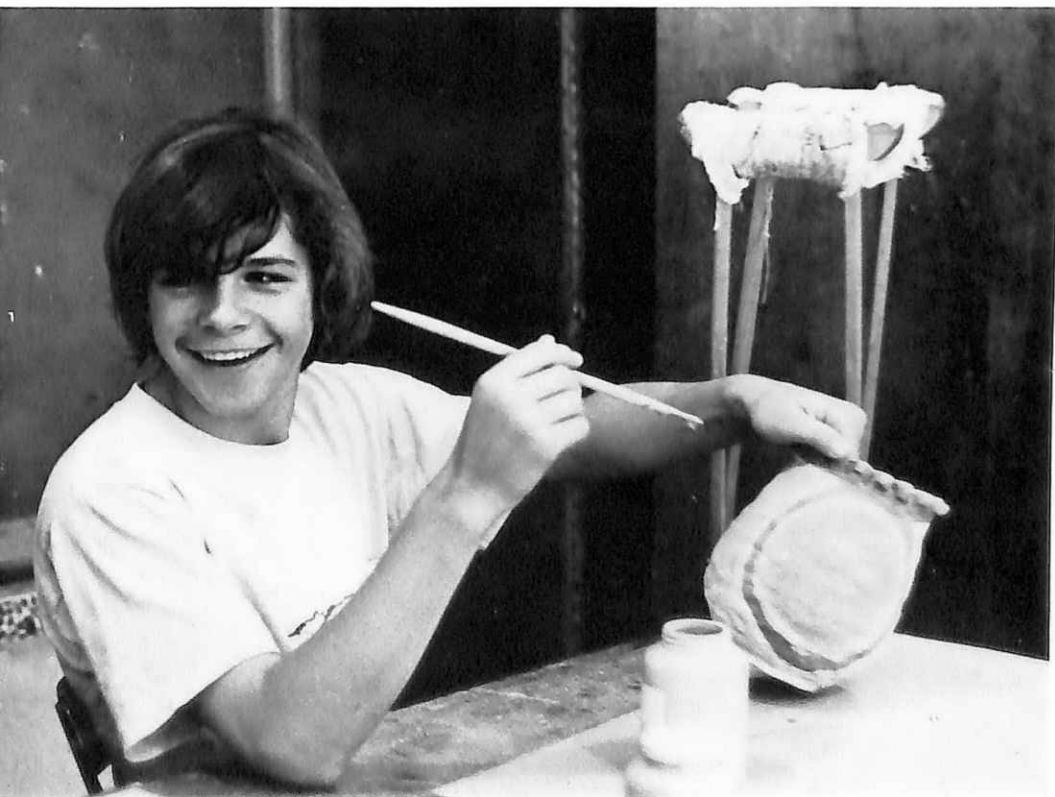

Another unique aspect of the program is "House," which gives you 30 minutes after 2nd period to relax, talk with friends, join in House activities, and participate in intramurals. If there was one phase to describe the Roosevelt program, it would be: "Freedom to Explore."

For the ninth grade basketball team, the last few years have been very dismal. For example, last year as eighth graders, they failed to put anything better than a fat zero in the win column.

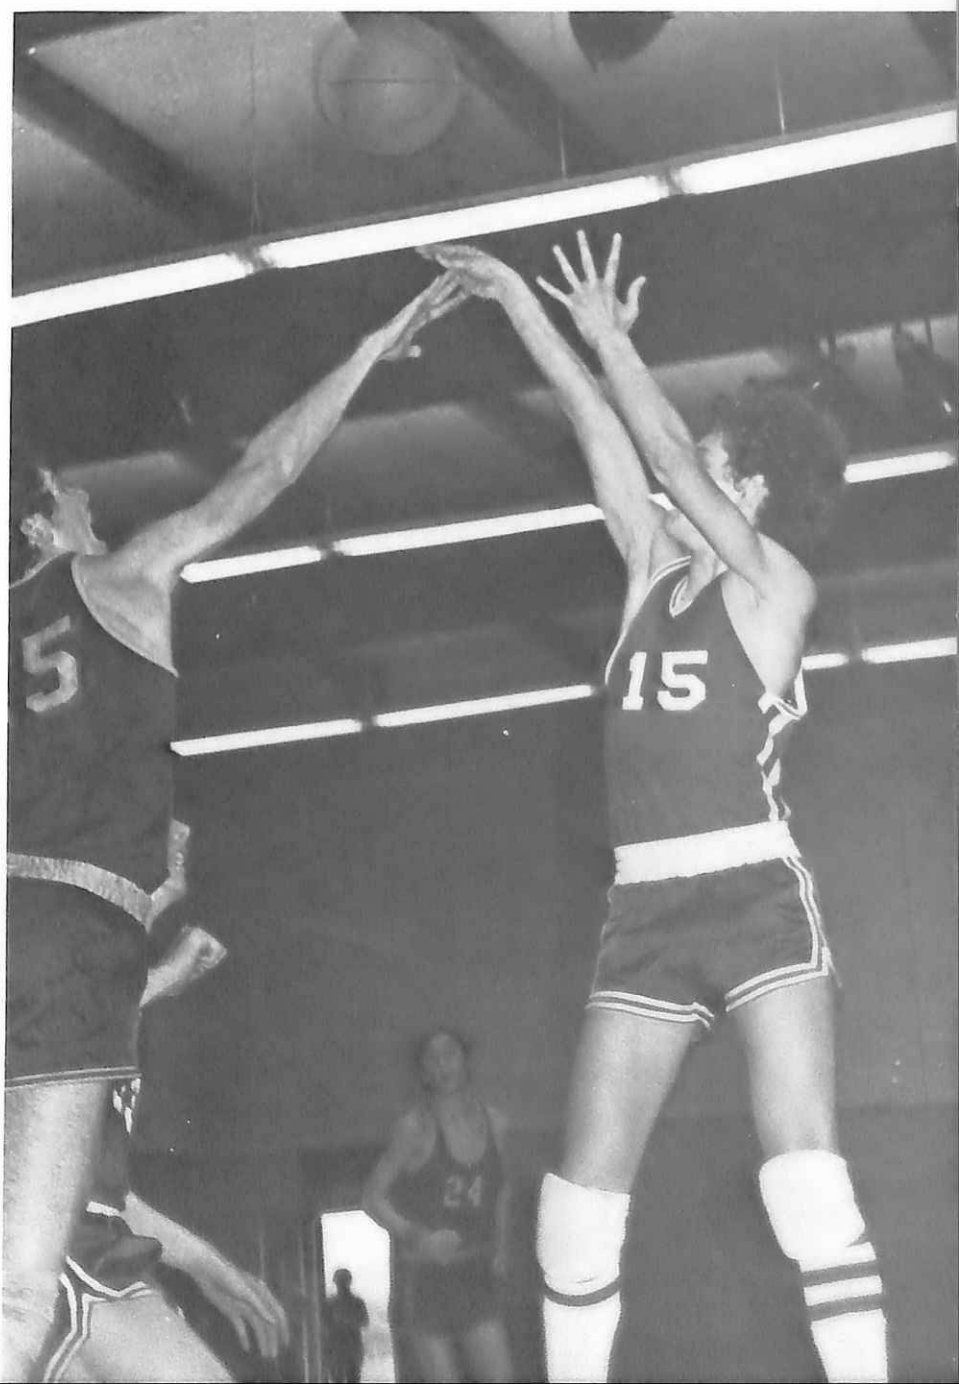

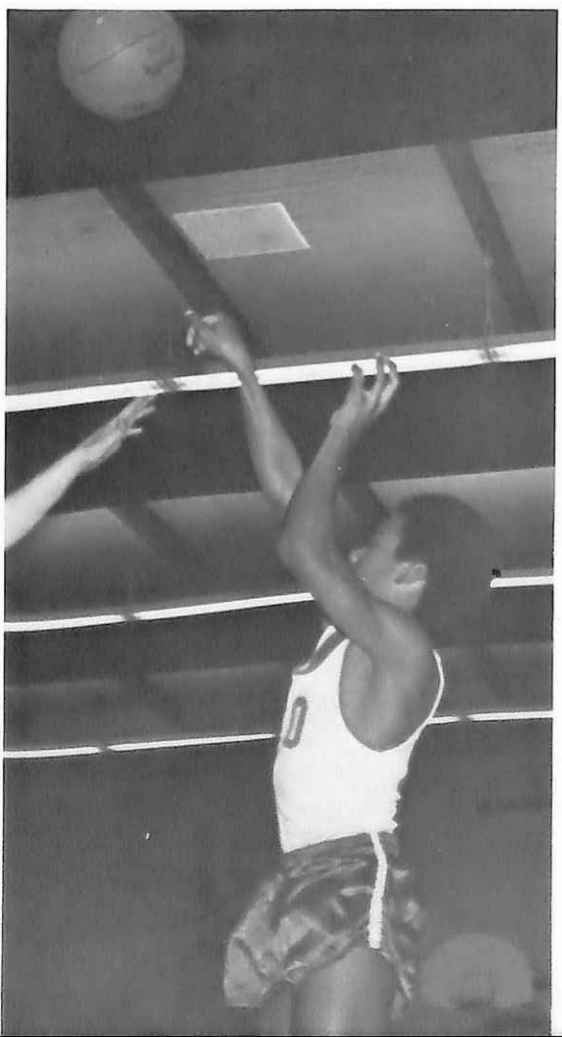

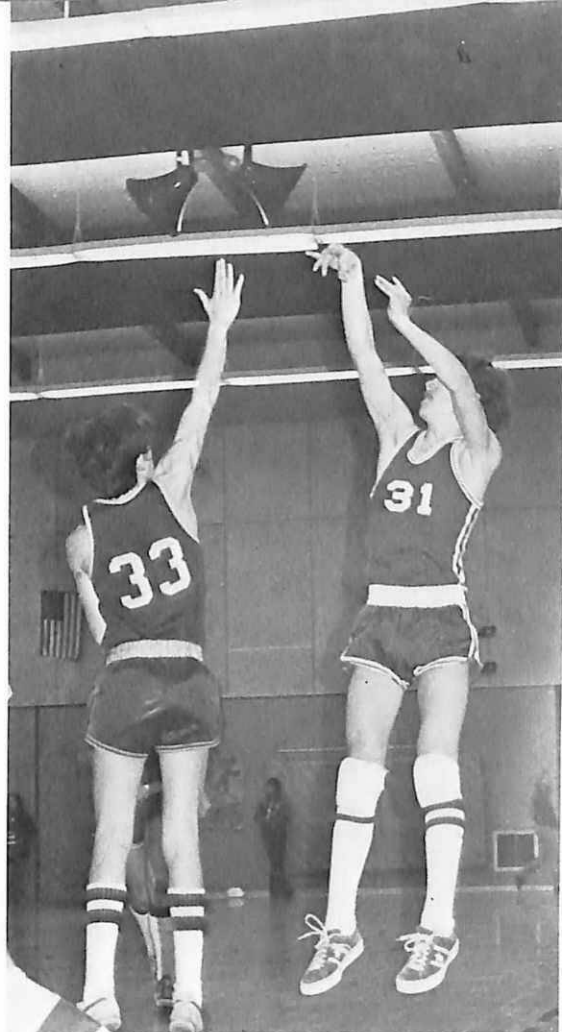

However, this year proved to be different. By the time this article was written, they had thrashed a couple of teams and had only lost once. The Roosevelt ninth grade team's style of play could probably be summed up in one word their coach Mr. Crabaugh used a lot: "awesome."

Pictures on this page: Gary Weber and Phil Ward say "no way" to shooting attempt; Players watch intently from the bench; Brian Romine being awesome; Duane Jones in eighth grade action.

BASKETBALL

INTRAMURALS

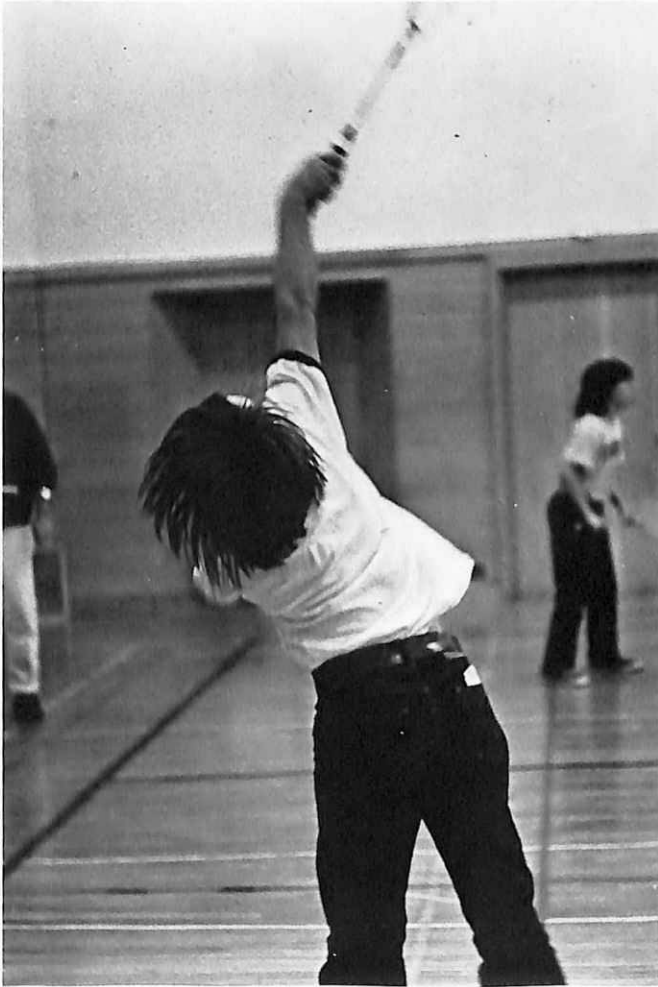

"Hmmm, now where did that puck go?"

"Ross, don't you dare kick that ball!"

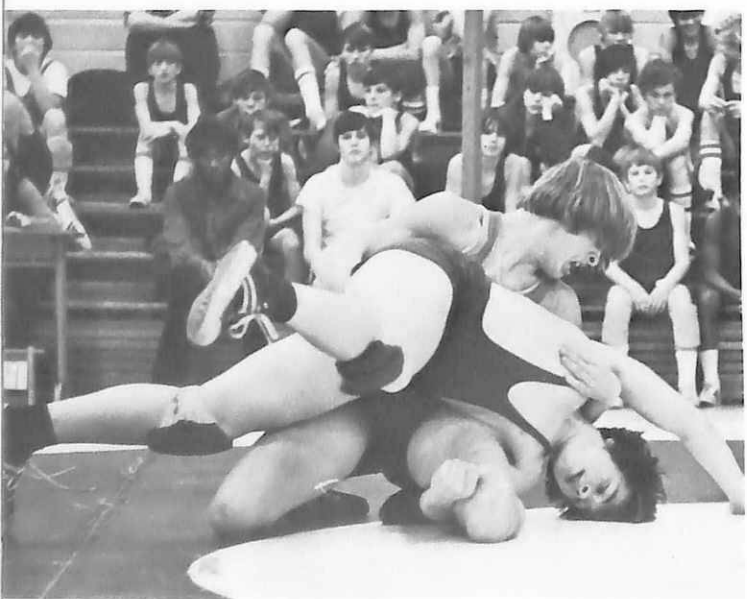

Intramurals are the "friendly" competitions between Houses in a wide variety of games and sports. This year intramurals greatly increased in popularity; more Houses participated than ever before.

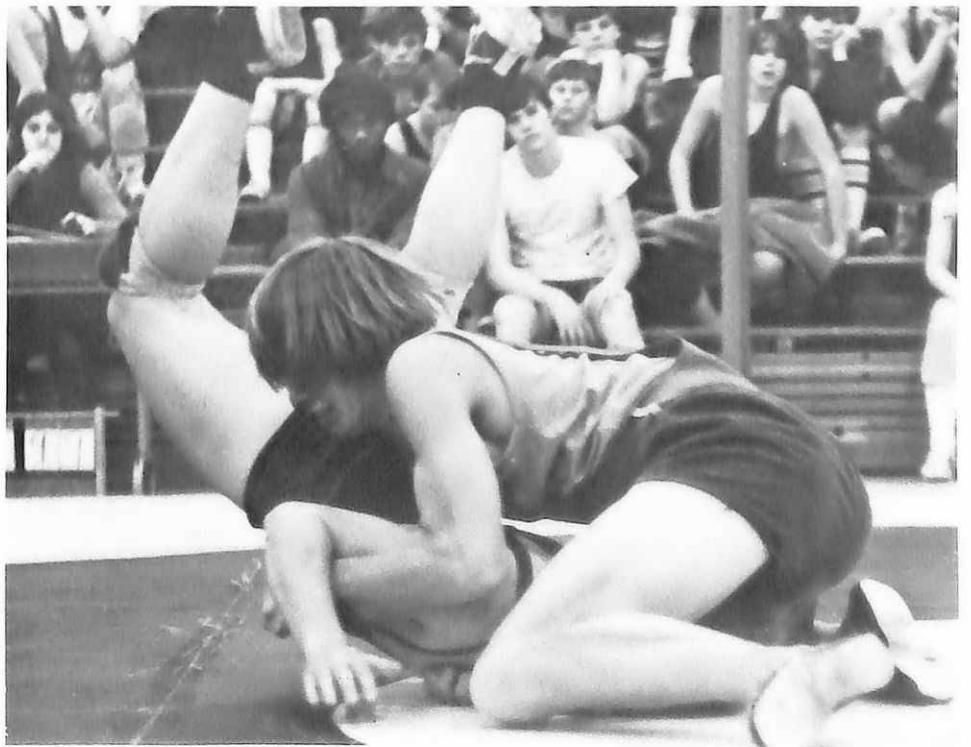

The whizzing blur of floor hockey.

DRAMA AND CANDIDS

MS.

Last year, Roosevelt put on a very successful musical called "Ms." The script was written by Ray Scofield. The music, lyrics, and direction were by Arnie Laferty. And the music was scored by Rick Wolfgang.

THE T. V. PRODUCTION OF "SHREW"

This year one of the Shakespeare classes was asked to do the five scenes they produced of "Taming of the Shrew" for T. V. In this class, Fred Heppner played the part of Petruchio, Ann Barr the part of Kate, and Mark Murphy the part of Baptista. This page is a pictorial account of the events the night they filmed the play for T. V.

The nervous wait was just too much for some people to handle.

The cameras warmed up with the Madrigals and the Recorder Ensemble. And then the real thing.

THE HAMS

This page is dedicated to the HAMS of Roosevelt Junior High, who were a constant menace to the photo staff of this yearbook.

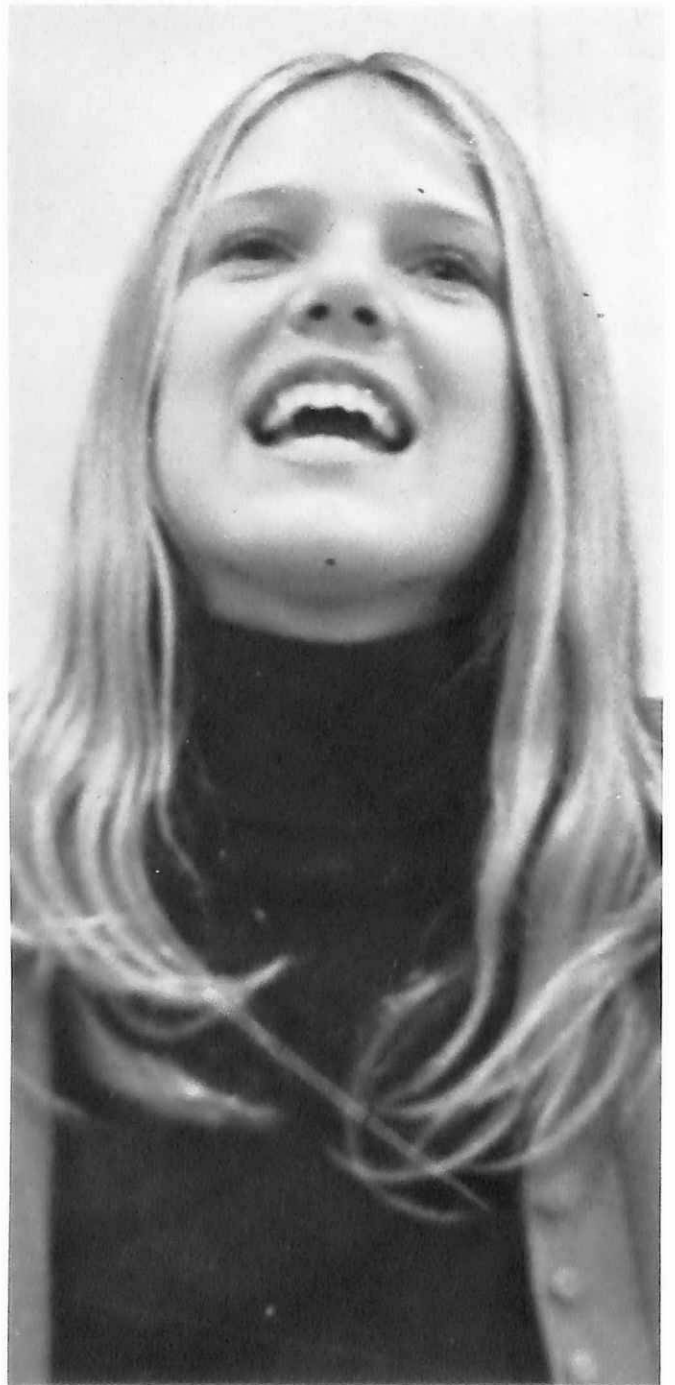

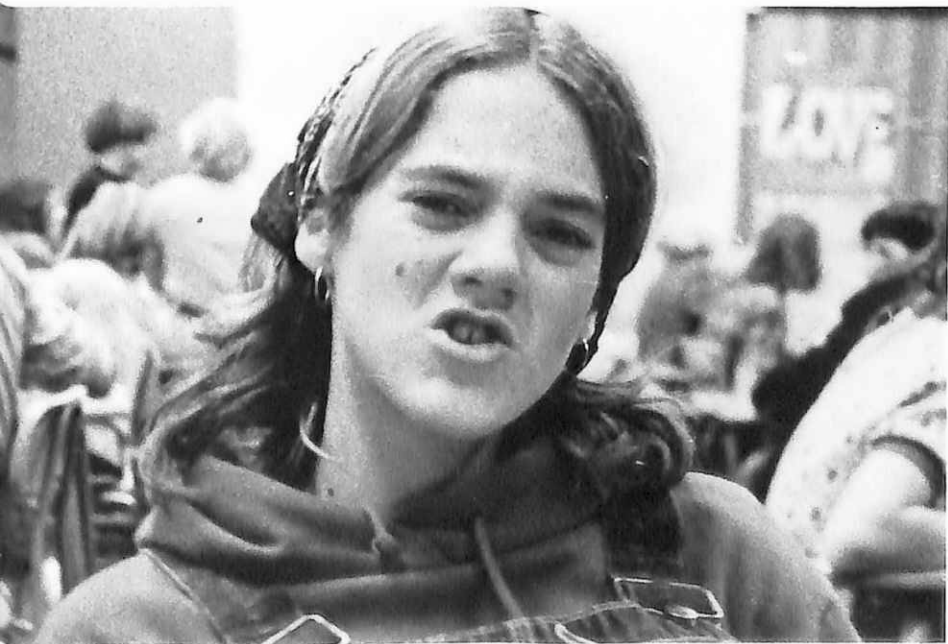

And this kid doesn't even go here!
