RESPONSIBILITY IS THE WORM IN THE APPLE OF FREEDOM!

So says the poster in the room of Mr. Chuck Mullaley, E-2 at Roosevelt Jr. High School. Since this school is one in which the students have the ability to choose their own classes (taking into account the counsel of their parents and advisors) this subject is often discussed at this school. The theme of this yearbook, therefore, is freedom and responsibility. As this year has gone by, we of the yearbook staff hope that those of you who are leaving for South Eugene and other High Schools, as well as those who will be staying here, are beginning (at least) to realize that these two apparently opposite subjects are in actuality closely intertwined.

DON JACKSON PRINCIPAL

Much has been said about the Roosevelt program, its students, staff, and methods of conducting school which by all instruments of measurements are indeed different. However, the parents of this community are no less different, and significantly so, in terms of support and time contributed to the multiples of program successes. At the conclusion of this school year, we will have experienced twenty-four arena-type registrations, each of which has had the assistance and been operated by 200 or more parents and their friends -- totaling over 600 hours of service per registration. In conservative terms, this constitutes 1800 days of volunteer service for this process alone over the past six years of program. This does not take into account the scores of individuals who have helped with the library, who phoned parents prior to registration, who assisted with the health screening program, who acted as aides in classrooms and classroom presentations, who served on assessment committees for lunchroom conditions, who helped with the coordination of parent handbooks, or in some cases worked with and taught classes. I believe it is impossible for both parents and teachers to fail to enrich the lives of the young people that depend on them when they work toward common goals, respecting and trusting one another.

To the parents and friends of the Roosevelt Community who represent such a great source of pride to this building and staff, we thank you and we'll always think of you as friends who have shared with us.

NAMIHIRA BOLTON
ASSOCIATE PRINCIPAL

Never before has my full being experienced the height of jubilation which I encounter daily within the interrelationships at Roosevelt. The responsible attitudes of the students; the human qualities and dynamic talents of the faculty; coupled with my association with the most uninhibited as well as genuine person I've ever met, Donald Jackson--The Principal; are the basic factors underlying the nurturing of my inner-self, my soul.

I treasure the past: the garage mechanic who maintained my vehicle, necessary in those early days for my livelihood; the professor who detoured my plans to jetison my college career short of graduation; and all those, led by my parents, whose love for me and belief in my basic mettle; yielded the man I am today.

I cherish the present; for the moment is now and my utilization of this fleeting entity, time, distillates idle rhetoric from meaningful endeavor.

And what of the future? I foresee my tasks as monitoring the present program for the purpose of recommending continuance or deletion of particular characteristics; maintenance of a sound academic and elective program consistent with the school's philosophy; and spawning original ideas, of mine and others, for the general embellishment of Roosevelt.

Aggressively I accept the administrative challenges of my position. And I'm certain that with a little help from my friends Roosevelt will continue to be the "Possible Dream" of Eugene School District 4J.

MAXINE BIERLY
DEAN OF STUDENTS

The best thing about Roosevelt is its "guidance system": forty-plus advisors, each one looking out for twenty teen-agers, make up a system where kids are not as likely to get lost in the crowd as they might otherwise. The whole place has been described as a "happy ship". It has been described in lots of other ways, too, not all of them complimentary. Maybe it would be most fair to say Roosevelt is in a good place and it's a good place to be in.

We the Student Body officers of 74-75 feel that Student representation in today's school is very important. Since the school here is for the students, we feel that students should have a say in what happens in and to the school.

We feel that without Student Body officers; representing students, there would be no one to express the students' feelings and opinions to the administration.

We hope we have done just that.

FREEDOM AND RESPONSIBILITY

"The program at Roosevelt is one of the greatest advances in the science of education since the invention of the chalkboard." This quote echoes the thoughts of most of those who are involved with the Roosevelt program. Within the program, the individual student obtains recognition as a person, and he is not looked upon as a type of guinea pig that is being used to test the new type of school. In the Roosevelt program, the student is given more freedom to plan his education, and an increase in responsibility along with it.

Since the program was initiated six years ago, there has been much debate in the community on the wisdom and merits of such a novel approach to education. The initial fears of the opponents of the system, that students of Junior High age could not handle the responsibilities thrust upon them with the new freedoms, declined in importance as it became obvious that the program was working.

In the past six years, there have been very few students who could not handle the freedoms which they enjoy at Roosevelt, and the entire program has benefited the students immeasurably as they go on to the High School program. At the end of this year, the first class to be under the new program for all three years of their Junior High experience will be graduating from High School, and many will be going on to college. Who knows what increases in the welfare of mankind they may make as a result of the new Roosevelt program.

CLASSES

The classes at Roosevelt are almost as varied as the students themselves, who may select out of almost 300 classes from 13 subjects from career education and typing, to foreign languages and english, all the way to science, health, the fine arts, and physical education, including subjects such as calligraphy, macrame, and anatomy. The way that the classes are brought to the attention of the students is through colorful names such as "Inside Out" for an anatomy class and "Nets to you" for a class in sports involving net play. In this fashion, the students become involved in the classes, work in them, and try to make them better for the next set of people who take them. Because of this, each time a class is offered, it is likely to be somewhat better than last time.

MEDITATION...

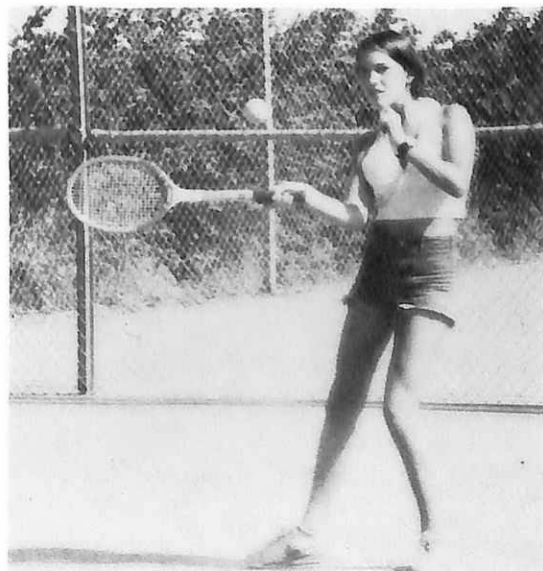

The teaching methods at Roosevelt are almost as diverse as the classes themselves, of which there are about 270 taught every quarter. One teacher may make a student do something right 35 times before he is satisfied, another may let the student decide just how much they will do in the quarter, while still another may make the student write up an assignment until it is completely correct.

Everybody always wants more freedom, but more responsibility always comes with it. This is well illustrated in sports. In a team sport you have freedom on what to do but not as much as in individual sports because sometime your teammates make the decision. Of course, also the responsibility is greater in an individual sport since there is no one to bail you out if you play poorly.

Putting theory aside the fact is when you are in shape many responsibilities are easier to bear, more freedom is possible and life is generally better.

Roosevelt isn't all seriousness, but when it comes down to responsibility we're very serious.

We may act strange and do a lot of things for laughs, but we are responsible. Responsibility comes from freedom and trust, and that's what Roosevelt is.
