Child Welfare and Attendance

Over the last 5 years, GUSD had approximately 87 interns provide a variety of services through the Child Welfare and Attendance program. Our goal is to ensure that each intern has a well-rounded learning experience. Interns are invaluable when properly trained to provide counseling services and additional support to our students who are uninsured, underinsured, or indigent. The Intern Training is a staple component of the Child Welfare and Attendance program.

Intern Training
Child Welfare
&
Attendance

The mission of the Child Welfare and Attendance program is to help each student reach his or her educational potential, by addressing the child's social, emotional, and overall well-being.

Child Welfare and Attendance links students with counselors or other community resources that will help GUSD students work through the challenges that are interfering with their academic, personal, or social adjustment. In addition, Child Welfare and Attendance provides parents an opportunity to receive ongoing support and education via parenting classes, case management, as well as various parenting workshops and presentations throughout the school year. Programs and services offered through Child Welfare & Attendance office are accessible to all GUSD students and families.
