They Toil for Us

Just as the technical crew on a movie lot is necessary to produce a picture, so are the trustees essential to the well being of a high school and its activities. The cooperation which trustees have given us in our school activities have pleasantly affected each and every student in Kingsburg Hi, and that cooperation is appreciated by all of us.

The trustees have helped us considerably this year in adding to our set—in the way of the new gym.

The new gym will prove a means in years to come for our students to improve themselves physically, and while they will not realize it, it will have been the work of the 1940 trustees which was responsible.

To these men we offer our gratitude for the help, cooperation and improvements, they have given us.

Principal's Message

The primary function of the school is to provide the necessary experiences which will tend to develop an adjustable individual—one who is able to so adjust himself as to take his rightful place in society.

Never before have the young people of America faced such a difficult and changing future as today. Likewise, never before have the youth of America had such opportunities to obtain an education and training for life's work.

Kingsburg High School endeavors to provide the essential factors of education necessary to help its students develop into worthwhile citizens of the community and state. Education, to succeed best in a democracy, must be a cooperative enterprise, developing intelligent followers as well as intelligent leaders. It is through such cooperative effort that this annual has been made possible, and is bringing to this nation the abundance of happiness and beauty which is now potentially available to all.

Intelligence, self-control, diligence, and cooperation are the greatest contributing factors to success.

CLASSES

Class of '40

DUDLEY BROWNING
President

The thought of leaving Kingsburg High School brings many pleasant memories into the minds of graduating seniors. With their eyes on the future, seniors feel that the four short years which have passed all too soon have gained them much valuable experience both in studies, athletics, and social activities.

Highlights of the past four years are many, but outstanding of them all was the day, when as scrubs, the Class of '40 tied the Sophomores in the Freshmen-Sophomore Brawl. Other important events of that first year were the Viking Varieties when many eager young freshmen faces appeared upon the program, and the memorable day when it snowed.

The sophomore year for the Class of '40 passed quietly, but with good representations in organizations and athletics. As juniors the class really bloomed forth with a fine junior play, "Headed for Eden," and placed first in the interclass competition. They ended the year with a very fine junior-senior banquet with seafaring theme.

Upon becoming seniors the class took over their duties as leaders in student activities. Efficiently assuming their responsibilities, the Class of '40 has done an excellent job in making this year a successful one.

Advisers:
Mr. Henderson, Mrs. Miller.

Arriving upon the campus this year, the juniors were eager to take over their responsibilities as upperclassmen.

As juniors, under the advisorship of Mr. Henderson and Mrs. Miller, the class made big steps forward by having three members on the C S F and many more constituting the backbone of school teams. The junior play, "New Fires," presented Dec. 8, was acclaimed an outstanding performance. In putting on the Junior-Senior banquet in the new gym, the junior class achieved more fame. As one of the foremost occasions of the year the banquet will be long remembered by everyone who attended.

With an abundance of material the class of '41 looks forward to greater achievements in classrooms, on athletic fields, and in spirit.

A large group of eager-to-learn sophomores entered the portals of learning in Kingsburg High School on September 18.

Starting out by winning the student card selling contest, they continued their good record by defeating the freshmen in the Brawl, and winning the Viking Howler subscription contest. A few sophomore boys were on the heavyweight football squad and more on the lightweight team. Several girls made the school volleyball squad.

President Bobby Rouch represented the sophomores on the honor society.

The class party, held in December was a huge success, and thoroughly enjoyed by those who participated.

Sophomore class members are enthusiastic in upholding the morals and standards of Kingsburg High, and plan to continue their good record upon becoming upper classmen.

Miss Breed, Mr. Yoder

Arriving at Kingsburg Hi, September 18, 1939, more than 90 freshmen took their places as beginners in fields of higher education. After several days of bewilderment the frosh finally became accustomed to their new surroundings and settled down as if they were old timers.

Losing the annual Freshmen-Sophomore Brawl the frosh were compensated for their defeat by being treated to their initial party, the official welcome given by seniors.

With a good record already well begun, the freshmen hope to continue maintaining the high ideals and principles which previous classes have set up for them.

BOARD OF MANAGERS

Composing the board of managers are all student body officers, and the president, vice-president, and treasurer of each class. The duties of the board consist in providing and arranging for the work and play of the student body.

The board of managers feels that it has been particularly successful in arranging the past year's activities to suit the needs and desires of the student body.

The student body had educational motion pictures from December through March, and interclass competition all year. Highlight of the year's assemblies was the Christmas debate on, Resolved: "Underclassmen should be taught that there is a Santa Claus." Debaters were Dudley Browning and Norman Nordstrom, who provided much amusement for their audience. Lyceums of high quality were also given once a month.

In completing this year's work the board of managers feels that it has set a very high standard for other boards in future years to uphold.

Mr. Peterson, adviser.

VIKING STAFF

With an earnest desire to put out a high quality annual this year, the 1939-1940 annual staff has worked unceasingly in its attempts to satisfy the wishes of the Kingsburg student body with a streamlined modern annual.

As a composite group this year, the annual staff worked together writing, cutting, typing, planning, and assembling. Helping in photography and typing, respectively, were Lina Martini and Alice Hussian, to whom the staff is grateful.

Responsible for the financial success of the annual were Bob Magnuson and Vic Hanson who handled advertising. Elaine Andrews and Zillabel Miller were staff photographers.

Feeling that the 1939-1940 annual has hit a happy medium in combining excellent photography with brief but explicit write-ups, the staff expresses sincere hope that this year's Viking will serve as a permanent record of a very successful year at Kingsburg High School.

HOWLER STAFF

Intent upon publishing a better paper this year, the Howler staff has succeeded to the point of putting out a larger paper with better news coverage than Kingsburg High has had for some time.

The school year 1939-1940 marks the third year of existence for the Howler. For several years previous to that time Kingsburg had no school paper.

Innovations introduced by co-editors Marian Martin and Eloise Hoogner, and Helen Morgan, business manager, have been bigger and more cartoons, more features, and a different cover for each edition.

Marian Martin has been doing the school news reporting for the Recorder also. Giving townspeople an idea of what is going on at high school tends to create more cooperation and better feeling between school and taxpayers.

The Howler staff hopes to continue putting out a better paper with each issue, setting as its goal honorable recognition from the Valley Press Association.

CALIFORNIA SCHOLARSHIP FEDERATION

Starting the year with seven members, the second semester found sixteen members in the CSF, the largest number since 1936.

Several members attended the District Convention held in Lemoore, November 4, 1939. The theme of the convention was autumn leaves. At this time, Clara Petris represented Kingsburg as the district vice-president.

During the latter part of April, a pot-luck supper was enjoyed by all members. Games were played after the supper and prizes were awarded to those with the highest and lowest number of points. Many of the members attended the Spring District Convention at Washington Union.

GIRLS OF SERVICE AND COUNCIL

In this year's activities, the Kingsburg Girls' League lived up to its motto by being of service to others.

Having successfully greeted new members at an evening reception and party, the Girls of Service began their program for the year with an interperiod dues contest which culminated in a bubble blowing contest to determine the winner of the grand prize.

Because the annual State Convention in Hanford was close, approximately 30 members of the Kingsburg League were able to attend.

As a special Red Cross project this year girls made layettes for war refugees. The girls also aided in collecting funds for the Red Cross. Extra money was raised by saving tooth paste tubes, the tin of which is valuable.

Over a hundred under-privileged children were brought to the the annual Christmas Party at which time they were able to renew their friendship with Santa Claus. The program for the evening was presented by Old Mother Goose and her children.

The year was appropriately brought to a close with formal installation of new officers and the Mothers' Day Party.

A splendid Fathers and Sons Banquet culminated a season with an unusually large number of activities this year for Future Farmers.

Starting with a bangup "rough house" initiation, the FFA has taken part in many social affairs as well as agricultural projects.

Chief among the agricultural work has been the individual project activities. In addition they have given Kingsburg a good representation in tri-county pruning contests, field days, and other activities.

FORENSICS

Kingsburg students were fortunate in being able to resume a program of public speaking this year after a complete absence of forensic activities for many years. The results have been most favorable for a first year's work in public speaking.

Engaging in interschool contests, Kingsburg placed second in their debate division; second and third places in county preliminary oratorical contests.

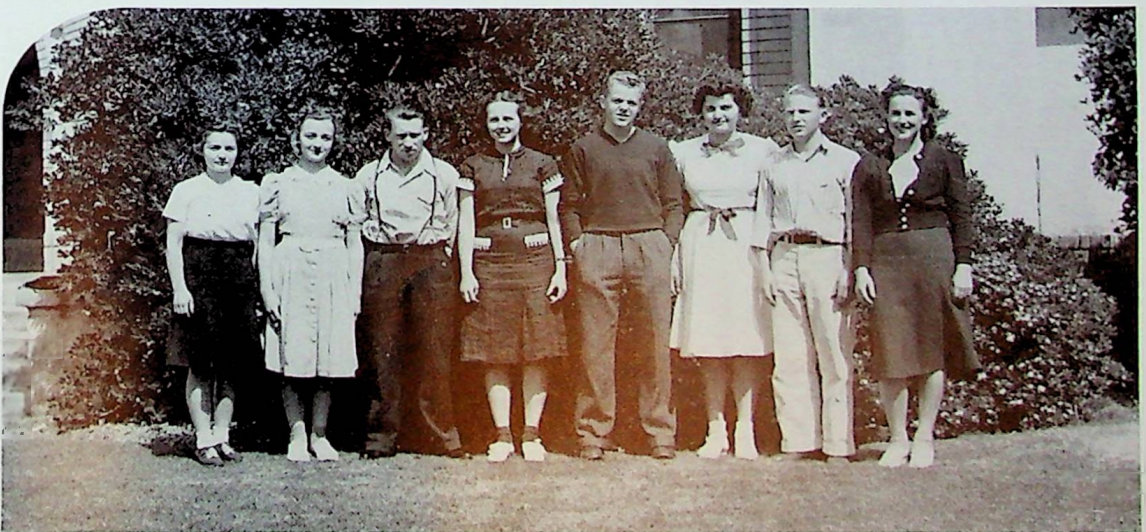

Kingsburg also placed second in the zone contest of the California Bankers' Oratorical Contest. In the county preliminaries of extemporaneous speaking, the Kingsburg speaker tied for second, and in the district contest of extemporaneous reading, Kingsburg placed first in the boys' division and second in the girls' division.

Miss Virginia G. Breed's primary aims are not engaging in interschool contests. The most important objective in forensic activity is learning to think and speak on one's feet. After that, style of delivery, character, and personality training are emphasized.

BOYS' "K" CLUB

In order to be eligible for the Boys' "K" Club, each boy must earn a letter in one major sport. For the first time in many years the boys organized into an active club. Electing officers, the club was ready to assume its responsibilities this spring.

During the year they took charge of the annual Freshman-Sophomore Brawl; also the school Whiskerino Contest, which proved to be one of the most hilarious events of the year.

To raise money, the club sold advertising on basketball programs to local merchants for home games. Accomplishing this feat, the club earned enough money to give a successful party as their final activity.

GIRLS' "K" CLUB

As the most important event of the year, the Girls' "K" launched Color Week to boost school spirit from October 13 to 18. During that week all students displayed school colors and town merchants cooperated by trimming their windows in green and gold. Students then voted for the best window display.

The "K" Club also decorated goal posts for the home football games. This innovation was well liked by students.

All the girls in high school were invited to the Sports Spread given by the Girls' "K".

During the formal initiation 10 new members were initiated to the club.

BAND

The Majorettes.

The Kingsburg High School Band, under the able direction of Elwyn Schwartz, has been unusually active this year.

With a total enrollment of 65 students, the band has presented talented programs. Novelty Pop Concerts have been featured during noon hours, and the band has played at all football games.

Kingsburg Band was represented by two students at the National Music Festival held in Los Angeles April 1 to 7.

Outstanding individual work of the year has been done by the Trumpet Trio.

The Viking Band Concert March 28 and 29 was outstanding in its harmony and skilled playing. The Dinuba choir and individual numbers helped to make this year's concert a success.

Winning a superior rating at the Central California Music Festival in Corcoran has put the Viking Band at the top of the list in performance and ability.

SENIOR HIGHLIGHTS

Despite the fact that difficulties prevented the seniors from having a class play, they engaged in many school activities, and represented Kingsburg in contests, conferences, and meetings away from home.

Outstanding senior activities of the year was the Dress Up Day on March 19. A larger percentage of the class and more novel types of costumes were represented than ever before. The seniors profited by their Senior party and trip to Fresno and the visit to Fresno State College. On April 24, the Seniors and the Faculty enjoyed the annual Steak Bake on the golf course.

Seniors also did outstanding work over Radio Station KARM in round table discussions and other forensic activities.

On May 26 the seniors attended Baccalaureate and on the evening of May 29 they graduated, leaving behind them a record which stands high for students in the future years to follow and uphold.

ATHLETICS

Turning the eyes of the camera into the field of sports, let us first take a look at the ones who teach them. Physical Education coaches are Marion Herbert and William Bunger. Assisting Coach Bunger are Frank Lumpe, C. M. Dodson, and Carl Palmer.

Kingsburg High School coaches have accomplished a noteworthy job in building up the bodies and minds of our players. They are to be congratulated on teaching their students fair play whether they win or lose.

The athletic managers are: Kay James, Bob Magnuson, and Roy Jacobson who have worked unceasingly to produce good teams.

Pictured on the field of sports are Kingsburg athletes, unlike young people in war-torn Europe pictured on the field of battle. The camera is pleased to bring you the highlights of 1939-1940 athletic season.

The year's athletic program has tended to give more and more students a chance to participate in sports. The new gymnasium has been a decided asset in giving more students individual guidance. With the added facilities that the new gym offers, an even better physical education program can be expected for future years.

BASEBALL

With a turnout of 26 players the practice baseball season started while the basketball season was still in session. During the season over 50% of the games were won. The Vikings were fortunate this year in having eight players from last year's team.

Also organized was a second or B class team which played four games.

Two long trips were taken this year, one to Madera and the other to Coalinga. Having refreshments after the games, the trips were turned into virtual picnics with a swimming party thrown in.

One of the new features of tennis has been the newly organized Tennis Club, of which every player is a member. Russell Jacobsen has been Chairman of the club since its organization early this spring.

This year two very promising Freshmen, Kikuye Kataoka and Helen Paulsen, were on the team. Bob Paulsen and Russell Jacobsen have gone far as the Viking boys' doubles team.

The Tennis Club sponsored the exhibition matches played by U. C. L. A. students on the Kingsburg courts, May 4. They also took an active part in arranging Fresno County tennis matches.
