Summer whispered farewell and tiptoed silently out of sight leaving behind fields of brown and gold. The air was clear and crisp, often heady with the heavy smoke and pungent smell of burning leaves. Nature displayed her last brilliant thrust of color, we knew that fall was here. We passively accepted its coming. We worked. We played. We paused and with that pause began a new chapter in our lives. We entered an impressive structure of cold steel, glass, brick and mortar, questioning, hoping, worrying, wanting to believe. Each wanting something. Each expecting something. Each with a goal. Each confronted with varied responsibilities.

We were challenged . . .

Apprehension began to die as the barrier between two contingents melted away. We flowed together through the year in a never-ending river of warmth. We clung together for a word that would restore our spirit and send us hastening toward the goal.

We accepted the challenge.
This year we have lived . . .

"A CHALLENGE TO EXCEL"

We sat and watched as the hands of the clock dragged nearer to the moment when we would be free of our studies. We played our usual game of hoping against hope that there would be no assignment. Two minutes remained — minds snapped back to reality as a muffled grumble arose indicating another failure at the universal sport of students. Complaints of long assignments and difficult subjects filtered through the halls. Most of us concerned ourselves more with social activities than high grades — more with how much we could "get away with" than how much could be accomplished. This year is past now, and as we look back at our accomplishments, our victories, and defeats, we wish we had applied ourselves; we wish we had studied harder. We dream of a chance to relive a week, or a term, or a semester. It is not to be ours. Grades have been recorded, rollbooks closed; we can do nothing with the past. Our hopes lie in the future.

SOCIAL SCIENCE . . TAUGHT US TO UNDERSTAND FOREIGN CULTURES

Remember the opaque silence of the debate room? Will the coming months and years ever bring to mind the laughs, tears, and joys of American history? Will future thoughts recall the intrigue of psychology, the time-test of world history, or the report delivered in sociology. Will the years erase Mrs. White's smile, Mr. Hall's frown, or Mr. Broberg's drawl? They taught about people. The globe revolved at the turn of their hands.

FINE ARTS . . . PROVIDED MEANS OF SELF-EXPRESSION . . .

A mixture of Beethoven, Shearing, Rembrandt, Nero, and Da Vinci were included in the new horizons of knowledge that opened daily to those who knew and loved the fine arts. Young, brilliant minds were brought to a new awareness of life as their appreciation of art and music grew. Band, orchestra, choir, and art classes offered the development the creative corners of the mind sought. Those who experienced an exposure to these aspects of culture have lived more fully.

SCIENCE . . . GAVE US AN UNDERSTANDING OF NATURAL LAWS . . .

To probe the vast expanses in the hidden worlds of the microscope, to delve deeply into the secret corridors of animal anatomy, to observe the simple, ageless laws of the physical sciences, to calculate the principles of area and relationship, to analyze the basic elements—these are the challenges, the opportunities of study in science, math, botany, chemistry, zoology, physics, trigonometry, consumers' math, algebra, and physiology.

MATHEMATICS . . . INSTILLED THE DESIRE TO ANALYZE. . .

BUSINESS . . . COORDINATED HAND AND MIND WITH EFFICIENCY

The ring of a bell, the click of typewriters, and the cheerful voice of a type teacher carried across the room. A frustrated office practice student made a correction, an efficient bookkeeper struggled to find a ten cent error, and an advanced shorthand student worked to get that last minute of dictation; competent instructors stood watch as they gained a confidence which would allow them to perform efficiently in the world of business.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION . . . KEPT BODIES FIT AS MINDS GREW . . .

Our well-staffed Physical Education Department offered a vigorous program of exercise and sports, a healthy outlet for pent-up energies. Complaints filtered daily from the gym, but no one took them seriously for no matter how much grumbling was heard all recognized the definite benefits gained from exercise. As the year progressed, each person felt a moment of quiet pride in a physical accomplishment — an extra inch in the high jump, a faster race or a more graceful dive.

VOCATIONAL SCIENCES . . . TRAINED OUR HANDS TO ASSUME ROLES

They march from the classroom with the knowledge of fields, crops, forests, animals, and building construction woven into their thinking. The methods of agricultural skills trembling within their knowing hands, they walk forth to feed America, to operate her machinery, to grow her fields. FFA meetings taught them while an instructor shaped the mind and hand, and boys began to grow into men.

OF THE FUTURE . . .

A heavy pie crust, a soggy cream puff, a crooked seam, a smile, and a memory — the delight of children as they gathered around a popcorn pan, squealing with glee, fresh, laughing. A new dress — hours of cutting, basting, hemming, and they were prepared for the life of tomorrow. An important role in society — builders of homes, makers of the future who prepared to make "home the heart of life."

LANGUAGE ARTS . . . BUILT EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION . . .

The crisp crackling of microphones in the foreign language laboratory, the steady scratching of pencils during a German lecture, the vigorous romping of "Snow White" and the "Seven Dwarfs" from the speech room, the hushed silence and opaque stillness of the library, and a rasping grind was heard as knowledge was planted in the fields of English, German, speech, Spanish, and library science. Varied as the sand of the shore are the media of communication, and capable as the pounding breakers are the minds that develop this wisdom in the Sky View Language Arts Department.

ADMINISTRATION

"A CHALLENGE TO INSPIRE"

As if by some secret code, for no bell is heard, the doors of classrooms open simultaneously up and down the halls. Students begin to file out and activity heightens as they prepare to leave another year of school behind. A teacher stands at the door and watches with a twinge of anxiety and pain as they hurry away. They are gone, he thinks; they are gone. Some will return, some are gone forever — gone to face a new and bigger challenge, gone to learn more of the ideas which will prepare them to lead, gone to confront mankind with their brilliant minds. With them they have taken a part of me, but I am not cheated, for in return they have left a portion of their fresh personalities; the essence of their ideas and their ideals linger behind. They have shared the fascinating blessing of youth and taught me to appreciate every fleeting moment of life. Their hurried schedules seemed hardly to allow for study; their minds raced as they tried to organize every moment — time was precious. Did they fully comprehend the last ten minutes of lecture in their eagerness for lunch? Were their thoughts concentrated on the words which could mean success or failure, when five minutes separated the confines of a classroom and the freedom of a pep rally? My drive to go on would start to fail as these doubts began to defeat me — and yet, when my hope for them was nearly spent, one would renew my strength with a question I knew had taken deep contemplation. In some I found an eagerness to capture every facet, every implication of a subject. To these and to all, I have tried to show the complexities of a world they must soon control. I have tried to instill in them the desire to learn, the desire to think, the desire to achieve greatness. Perhaps this challenge to inspire was a success; perhaps I instilled the spark in one, just one, who will aspire to greatness. If just one succeeds, I can face my challenge of tomorrow with a renewed spirit, knowing all was not in vain. With this thought in his mind, he slowly closes the door and vanishes down the hall. His hope is not in vain; there is one. One will be great.

CACHE COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT BOARD OF EDUCATION

J. W. DeGraff

Willis Hall

Bryce Draper

Mark Lindley

Keith Hansen

Doris Budge

Dean Haslem

Behind that wall of policies and regulations that we so frequently and freely criticize, stand the eight devoted individuals who comprise our school board. These few are constantly confronted with the many problems which inevitably arise from attempting to co-ordinate the affairs of an organization. Although it does not appear to be so, their job is a difficult one. They must try to please the public, whose opinions they were elected to represent, and simultaneously keep the teachers, students, and the separate administrations of the district schools happy. We encounter only those decisions which directly affect our activities; we are oblivious to the long hours spent at frequent meetings where various opinions co-ordinate for the smooth operation of the district, and the battle of the budget continues. We extend to our board members: J. W. DeGraff, member; Willis Hall, president; Bryce Draper, superintendent; Mark Lindley, member; Keith Hansen, clerk; Doris Budge, member; and Dean Haslem, member, the deepest gratitude for helping to bring us a step nearer to success. We appreciate their efforts.

Mr. Kenneth Webb
Principal

One year ago as the summer months began, a man started to work on a dream — a dream of what Sky View High School could be. Mr. Kenneth Webb, Principal, undertook the gigantic task of organizing, developing, and building that dream into a reality. The reality wasn't a school of brick, or glass, or stone, but a school of warmth, a school of dignity, quality, and nobility. The plans are spent now. The man who perpetrated them was successful; he will receive but the grateful silence of empty halls.

Mr. Irel Eppich
Vice Principal

A quiet little office in the main hall; Executive Council bulletins, programs; administration problems; long lines of officers, editors, and students seeking counsel, permission; a narrow, crowded room; the vestibule of the school. A rapid stride, a burst of enthusiasm, a pleasing tone, a barrage of problems, a maze of questions, the scrape of pen on clip board, a decision, and the steady strides of Mr. Irel Eppich echo along the hall. Labor, dignity, responsibility, humility, prayer.

65 dozen eggs, 5 pounds of salt, 175 gallons of milk, and another hot lunch was ready to be served. The efficient ladies who planned and prepared these nutritious meals for students and teachers alike were: First row: Delone

COOKS... EFFICIENTLY PREPARED AND SERVED NUTRITIOUS MEALS . . .

At 11:45 and again at 12:45, one-thousand starving students stampeded anxiously through our modern, convenient cafeteria doors eagerly anticipating an appetizing meal. Many minor problems arose as the lunch program began but soon subsided when lunch period was extended five minutes, and a system of getting through those double doors, body completely intact, was developed. The atmosphere was unstrained and many a digestive tract was soothed by the soft melodic strains of the FM radio.

BUS DRIVERS . . . READY, WILLING, AND ALWAYS WAITING . . .

Faithfully each morning and evening, our sixteen trusty bus drivers set out from various places to pick up and distribute their loads. Transporting through sleet, fog, and snow, these cheerful men put up with all types of annoyances from carelessly discarded litter to the ear-splitting off-key harmony

CUSTODIANS . . . CONTRIBUTED HOURS OF DEVOTED SERVICE . . .

Cleaning, scrubbing, polishing, locking, unlocking, emptying, mopping, waxing, our six patient custodians worked from dawn until dark keeping Sky View spotless. Early in the morning, late at night, week-ends, and holidays—the sound of the waxer, jangling keys, and desks sliding across the floor denoted the presence of the custodians working diligently to add a deeper shine to the waxed floor, to perfect the tidy appearance of halls and rooms, and to ready the building for another day of school. With a smile, a tool, and a steady hand, Bob McNeeley, Alden Hodges, Edward Hyden, supervisor; Lyman Churchill, Angus Esplin, and Orvid Pitcher could remedy any mechanical failure—from a stubborn lock to an overflowing water fountain.

STUDENTBODY

"A CHALLENGE TO UNITE"

A student stands looking into an empty classroom — remembering. The pictures, a slightly marred desk, the green walls and acoustical ceiling, the scuffed floor, a mashed piece of chalk and a smudged blackboard, a full pencil sharpener and even the fingerprints around the light switch all hold something a little special — a memory. dissecting a round worm, passing a 120-word per minute dictation test, crying at the close of the play, the feeling of pride at the completion of a perfect march routine, the wild enthusiasm when a wrestling opponent is pinned. Yes, they are there, in the scuffed floor, the mashed piece of chalk, smudgy fingerprints, and a full pencil sharpener. To select the most pleasing accomplishment, the most beneficial endeavor, or the gayest of times would be only an exercise in futility, for they are bound together as one stone in the steps of life. The student faces an empty hall, Gazing for only a moment he begins to walk. All is bare where once there were throngs, but he is not alone for he feels the security of their hearts, the comfort of memories near to him. They were united. Together they won and lost, hoped and wished, believed and understood, they shared their ideas and ideals. Together they cried tears of joy. He quickens his pace and blindly pushes through the door into the bursting sunshine. Turning, he stares at that structure of stone and glass, steel and mortar. His eye catches the reflection of sunshine on a window and his mind returns to past victories, past defeats. "Ah, we have lived," he murmurs. Tears well in his eyes.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

The labors of planning organization, originating unique and better activities, and starting new lines of correspondence consumed many post-school hours of the executive council. The challenge of gaining approval from the citizens of the top schools in the state have fallen before the perseverant sword of these student leaders. The student administration has been driven by the forceful Jim Kearl, senior, chairman. Bob Carlson, senior, vice-chairman, directed the activities of the coordinating council. The dances and socials were under the fresh, energetic Racheal Ashcroft, junior. Bob Wadley, senior, planned and maintained the cultural calendar. Clear, concise records of meetings and activities commanded the talents and time of Marilyn Farrell, senior. Robert Mouritsen, senior, was editor of out-of-school publicity and took charge of publications. A standing record of the Bobcat's first year was written by Ellen Baer, senior, historian. Jon White, junior, correlated the various athletic and rally programs. Perhaps, in future years, this method of student administration may be changed, altered, or done away with. Another year may never see an Executive Council, but the first year by Sky View has been successful. Programs, activities have been initiated, worked for, and achieved. They started with a cloudy sky, and they walked triumphantly through the clouds.

Each of the fifty homerooms were represented in the Student Senate which met once every two weeks to discuss school and student-administration problems. This body under the supervision of the Executive Council, planned, evaluated, and administered the programs and policies of the Bobcat's first year out of the den. The November Election Week and the Christmas Decoration Contest were some of the more prominent items of curriculum sponsored by the Sky View High School Student Senate.

The end of the academic year found fifteen clubs chartered and in full operation at Sky View. As the group represents a large portion of the studentbody, many successful pep campaigns and general programs of propaganda have been initiated there. These clubs subjected the students to a barrage of activities, socials, and a general labyrinth of extra-curriculars. All these clubs were represented on the Co-ordinating Council, which met once a month to plan and correlate club activities.

SENIORS . . . WERE INSPIRED TO NEW HEIGHTS OF

Fighting for the recognition of a superior school held its adversities. As the first graduating class of Sky View, the seniors faced the biggest task. One of their most pressing problems lay in the choice of directors. They chose well. Governing the number-one class were Karen Seamons, vice president; Dian McBride, representative; Peggy Carlson, secretary; and Kent Nelson, president. These four saw the challenge and sought to influence their newly combined classmates on to the yet unattained summit of a conquest in perfection. Now it is over. These seniors have reached out and touched the shirttails of life. The taste is bitter, yet sweetened with their accomplishments—a well-performed solo, a perfectly executed debate, a satisfying academic report, a triumphant football play. They've laughed; they've cried. They've triumphed; they've failed. With all the intensity that accompanies youth, they've plunged into the deep pursuit of perfection. The memory of their efforts will race on into oblivion, but the memory of their successes will burn forever on these pages and in the minds of those who accompanied them down the road toward a victory for their hearts. They, too, saw the challenge: they met it, they lived it, they loved it.

LEARNING TO DECIDE THEIR FUTURE FATES . . .

After nine months of engraving on papyrus, efficient Ellen Baer wishes that she had learned to type. Oh well, we all have our little problems.

Our National Merit Scholars enjoyed their leisurely schedule. There is a fairy tale of rising above one's environment by work.

OF SATISFYING ACCOMPLISHMENTS IN SPORTS . . .

Janice Larsen's lovely performance of "This Is My Lucky Day" helped make the Harvest Ball assembly a success.

The active pursuit of knowledge.

"OK, Joyce, you take the auditorium; Marcia and Karen, check the lunch room. The rest of you come with me. And remember, bring 'em back alive."

JUNIORS . . . LEFT BEHIND THE MEMORIES OF THEIR

With a year of experience behind, the juniors were accustomed to the pace of a new environment. An air of relaxed dignity enveloped them as they carried themselves through a satisfying, eventful year, pressed with the realization that only a few milestones lie ahead as they entered their final phase of preparation. The goal terminated at a pinnacle only seniors may assume. As they ascended the pyramid of progress, their alert minds mastered the necessary skill to adequately direct those behind them. Their accomplishments were recorded as achievements of the group, but they could never have faced their undertaking without the capable guidance of their leaders. These included the engaging Terry Littlelike as their president; smiling, winsome Dixie Smith as vice president; Diane Grimshaw, with her glittering personality accepted the responsibility of secretary; and dashing, charming Craig Harrison performed as their confident representative. They have been guided, taught and influenced by all that lies around them. They have reached the summit. A conquered challenge lies behind; an even broader one is exposed in the distance. They are prepared; they are anxiously awaiting the opportunity to prove themselves.

SOPHOMORES . . . DEVOTED THEMSELVES TO

These eager adolescents have courageously entered an unfamiliar world of alarming newness. They were thrown from their quiet existence into one of the greatest challenges they will ever encounter. They have matured in their realization of life and their respect for the bounties of knowledge. In their acceptance of the venture, they have added the innocent serenity required to complete this facet of activity. Confusion reigned in their minds as they flew from place to place hunting for time, rooms, and people they knew. They were hoping to grasp somewhere, in someone, a little of the tranquility they had known before entering high school. It wasn't to be found. Instead of pining, they set about to mold the talents of the class, determined that they would not be known as the "stupid sophomores" at the termination of the year. They worked industriously and closely. Their first successful step was the election of their officers. They were benefited by the services of Brent Lundberg, representative; Darlene Taylor, secretary; Ruth Ann White, vice president; and Brian Lundberg, president. For them only the orientation is over. Ahead lies a sphere of obstacles that, when surmounted, will leave a lasting joy never to be forgotten.

"A CHALLENGE TO IMPROVE"

Apprehension overwhelmed that group of anxious individuals as they entered the building for the first time. All a part of that group, we warily anticipated the year—each desiring to give something of himself, each hoping to meet people who would enrich his personality, each needing the security of belonging. Afraid of losing our identity or having time on our hands, we joined a club. Activity quickly brought members the enjoyment and satisfaction of participation. Special speakers, informative films, demonstrations, and group activities deepened our interests and furthered our aims. There was joy in competing with a fellow student on the rifle range, racing a buddy down the snowy slopes, cherishing the moment the deafening applause arose from a pleased audience. We learned, we progressed, we grew through our association with others. There were areas to overcome—the need for time, money, and authorization, but we met them with the limitless energy of youth; we conquered. A goal was reached: to provide a chance for each one to participate, to belong, to enjoy. The opportunity was there. We took it. We shall not soon forget the rewarding experience.

AURORA . . . HAVE BEEN OVER EVERY DETAIL OF A GREAT YEAR;

Lois Nielsen
Co-editor

Sue Ann Erickson
Co-editor

Wanted: students to work developing a yearbook. You must be willing to sacrifice grades, sleep, and sanity to record the events that form memories of a school year. Must be able to stand the frustrations of a crowded office strewn with pictures, copy and ideas, the bitter disappointment in having your best copy mercilessly proofread and changed. Must be able to stand the lump in your throat that arises at the end of the year when the work is completed and you stand and survey the cluttered office, empty and silent with the memories of missed deadlines, strong friendships. Little reward is offered—just a feeling of satisfaction in saying, "I wrote that copy, thought of that cut line, laid out that page." No public acclaim is given but none is asked for. Yes, there is little reward, but it is worth every sacrifice.

Bill Richardson
Photographer

We take a last look at the cluttered room. Our challenges have been great; our conflicts many; our memories unnumbered . . .

Lost layouts,
blasted photography paper,
missed deadlines,
the unmistakable odor of the darkroom,
the click of typewriters,
late hours,
pop bottles and potato chips,
mountains of crumpled copy sheets,
headaches and heartaches,
advisors,
Community Press,
patience . . . and aspirin . . .

History has been made . . . the beginning recorded.
Our job is complete.

... LABORED UNDER HEAVY ODDS TO RECORD NEW EXPERIENCES

A student body . . . their activities . . . a newspaper. Together they comprise the memories of our year. There was a newspaper to organize, its traditions to establish, an opportunity to serve, and responsibilities to fulfill. Assisted by associate editors, reporters, advisors, photographers, business managers, and an understanding and co-operative printer we issued a paper that proudly told the story of a newly united school. As we turn our responsibility to Carma and Kathy, we look back over the year with satisfaction in a job completed, with pride in a challenge met, with joy in a treasured association. No more dummy sheets; no more headlines; no more midnight hours writing copy. It's over, yet never to be forgotten.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

All must learn, some must teach, and though this profession holds only the reward of watching youth grasp new ideas, the direction has been chosen by the devoted members of the FTA. Mark Daines, president, co-ordinated the efforts of Nancy Schaub, vice-president; Marcile Grandy, secretary; Susan Nuttall, reporter; and Mary Jean Gunnell, historian; for a successful year of activities.

BUSINESS CLUB

Working toward a common goal, that of becoming efficient office workers, the Business Club enjoyed interesting speakers and informative demonstrations. Enlightening advice about a career in the business world by Helen Lundstrom; a successful assembly, "Secretaries Around the World"; and colorful slides of Hawaii and Viet Nam each had a hand in acquainting members with the role of a modern secretary. The officers of the organization were: Jane Leonhardt, Coreen Hammond, Suzanne Tucker, and Carolyn Kendell.

SAFETY COUNCIL

A word of caution, and a mishap was avoided. Janae Jesson headed this council, with Stan Postma vice president; Margaret White, secretary; and Donna Zollinger as historian-reporter. Their safety slogans and campaigns brought us recognition as safe drivers. Protected with safety, the school progressed, and for this we were grateful.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

The Future Homemakers of America ably prepared themselves to take over the responsibilities of the home and furthered interests in home economics. Whether listening to a guest speaker, attentively watching a cake decorating demonstration, picking themselves up from the hard cement floor of a roller skating rink, frantically floundering in the swimming pool, or attending the state FHA convention, this enthusiastic group had a good time. The club, in connection with the FFA, sponsored the Harvest Festival Ball assembly and dance, "This Is My Lucky Day." Officers were: Nyla King, Maridee Bodily, Jett Theurer, Mary Lou Thornley, Dixie Iverson, Lucille Lamb, Julia Ann Tippetts, and Jan Mitchell.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

The displays were authentic, real, built to scale. The projects were new, different, precision carved, sanded, polished. Success was theirs, and they deserved all of their recognition. Phillip Spackman and Gary Jensen served as president; Lynn Cooper, Ronny Christensen, vice president; Jack Smith, Wade Hatch, secretary; Sid Grizzell, Gary Brown, treasurers; Vern Kendell, Lloyd Jensen, reporters; Gary Ballard, assistant reporter; and Lyle Lofthouse, Richard Harris, as sentinels. These are they who will build the industries and agriculture of tomorrow's America. They will scratch the sand, irrigate the desert, and harvest the fiber to feed millions.

The unparalleled excellence of the Concert Band was not achieved in a day, a month, or even a year. An interest in music was instilled long ago in these 85. Countless hours of practice prepared them for the inspired hand of Thomas Nelson, who wove their talents into a matchless group of musicians. Their music enchanted us in the concert hall; they delighted us with their clever marching. We were proud of them; we were proud to have them associated with our school. Twirlers were: Marie Bott, GeNee Stephens, Nancy Waddoups, Lynette Creech, Kathi Smith, Jeanne Jensen; flag carriers, Marsha Sutherland, Arlene Thompson, and Kathleen Hall; drum major, Larry Janes.

VARSITY BAND

Music is not a rigid science. It is neither exact, strict, nor severely precise. Music is a feeling, a dream, an impression, an emotion. Music is an art and like all arts, requires that certain element of inspired creativity. That very element lay at the hands of the Varsity Band. They took it up and touched our hearts and minds with their expressions of music at performances. With experienced hands Mr. Thomas Nelson successfully molded young talents and taught each student to appreciate good music.

ORCHESTRA

With the initial downbeat of a baton, the orchestra began the harmonious strains of "The Sound of Music." Accompanying the operetta represented only one of the many endeavors of this organization. Mr. Thomas G. Nelson, conductor, transformed the 28 members of the orchestra into accomplished musicians who entranced their audiences at fall, Christmas, and spring concerts. The overwhelming desire to express a musical ability sparked this group who met their demanding goal well: to create with music.

Second row: DeAnne Wood, Janet Beutler, Vicky Peterson, Trudy Nielsen,

KEY CLUB

With a pledge to honor, build and serve, the fifty enthusiastic members of the Key Club expressed their standards. Ryan Christensen, Pat Caine, Mike Oliverson, Kay Littledike, and Dennis Harris led this group who started a lasting tradition with their efforts and devoted service. Their accomplishments have brought honor to the organization and to the school.

Front row: Kathryn Gutke, Sandra DeGraff, Ursula Zurcher, Brenda Loosle, Loa Balazs, Joyce Howell, Betty Chadwick, Jan Butler, Linda Olney. Second row: David Robinson, Larry West, Ed Lindbloom, Karen Seamons, Claudia Rose, Judy Burbank, Maurine Christensen, Kathy Lundberg, Sherri Johnson. Third row: Craig Preece, David Peterson, Dale Bradshaw, Glen Winget, George

EXPRESSED -- WITH MUSIC . . .

The muffled hum of a vocal drill crept under the door and another choir class began. The sounds of rehearsal—the echo of sections, the deep rumble, the vibrant tinkling, the anti-climax meant little, but the slash of a baton during a performance brought the perfect blending of seasoned voices to our ears, and we understood. Mr. Stratford Loosle developed the talents of this group well; they left with a deeper understanding of the universal language—music.

CIELS

A pom pom lies in the middle of the gym floor. The strings have been pulled out one by one, perhaps in frustration, in disappointment, or excitement. Whatever the reason, the pom pom holds many memories of the organization that served without thanks. Their blue and white uniforms were familiar as the members hurried about, making school a little bit better. Officers were Carol Thatcher, president; Janet Beutler, vice president; Nancy Mather, secretary; Joyce Howell, historian; and Kathy Milligan, Kris Campbell, and Bonnie Shaw, drill masters.

BLUE STREAKS

The new year brought Sophomores, seeking to belong, willing to serve, fresh with ideas and hopes. With an energetic spirit, they pursued this activity, they worked with it, they expanded it. They were the noise at pep rallies, the pulse at ball games, the polite smile in a blue and white checked vest. Their officers were Darlene Jaussi, president; Larry Petersen, vice president; Ralph Pitcher, secretary; and Joanne Rappleye, historian-reporter.

CUM LAUDE SOCIETY

Twelve long years of study, extra hours of homework, a little more effort, sacrifice, and then the notice comes from the faculty: "Congratulations on your academic achievement." Sam Bodily, president; Gary Anderson, vice-president; Maridee Siler, secretary; and Donna Zollinger, representative; headed this group who achieved — with honor.

LETTERMEN

To foster good sportsmanship, to develop sound mental and physical bodies, and to encourage participation in athletics were the aims of the Lettermen Club. Capably, the club accepted the responsibility of controlling students who were unable to control themselves at assemblies. Directing this sports-minded group were: Alan Harris, Neil Young, Mike Budge, and Kay Littledike.

SPANISH CLUB

Gaining a knowledge of culture and people, an unforgettable display of talent, a different assembly themed around the South Sea Islands, guest lecturers, a trip to Salt Lake, a banquet, and a Language Festival highlighted the activities of the Spanish Club. Officers were: Ferron Jorgensen, Elaine Stolworthy, and Diane Halsey.

GUN CLUB

The smooth precision of polished steel, a target, a practiced hand, a quick eye—all were well-known to members of the gun club. Shoots at the armory developed skill, and competition brought scores up. Charting the rifle range for this season were Nolan Fergus, president; Aaron Anthon, vice-president; and Dan Gyllenskog, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Liechty, advisor; Kurt Smith, Sherry Ann Griffin, Stephen Balls, Aaron Barson, Dan Gyllenskog, Max Paine, Dan Cooper, Arnon Anthon.

FORENSICS

"Resolved that Nuclear Weapons should be controlled by an international organization," was a vital topic and one of prime concern to those forensic students who studied and competed for the debate squad. Debaters gained confidence and experience as the year progressed; minds filled with facts, they matched their wit and skill with various teams at region and state forensic meets.

MODEL UNITED NATIONS

Thinking like a communist doesn't sound particularly difficult—until one tries. This educational challenge fell upon the 47 delegates to the Model United Nations this year. It was their job to represent the Communist Bloc countries—to obstruct all actions and make the Model U.N. as realistic as possible. Their study made them aware of problems on the international level.

Front row: Robert Mouritsen, Earl Phippen, David LeFavor, Gary Anderson, Larry West, Sam Bodily, Jim Kearl. Second row: Howard Smith, Doug Linford, Lynn Affleck, Bruce Obray, Bob Wadley, Susan Nuttal, Rita Ellis. Third row: Pat Kozlowski, Kris Ana Rindlisbacher, Dawn Alhretsen, Sarah Hunting, Janice Nelson, Genan Taylor, Mary Alice Timmins, Margaret White. Fourth

ARCHERY CLUB

They felt the keen precision of their own bow in action after hours of cutting, polishing, sanding, and grooving. Lectures, tours, and shooting matches characterized the normal archery club sequence, directed by Kent Nyman, president; Roger Douglas, vice-president; and Darrell Roskelly, secretary. An arrow, a bow, a target, 10-20-30-50 twang, a contest, fifty paces, and a bull's eye.

AQUATICS CLUB

The Sky View Aquatics Club was instituted to promote safety in and around the water. A Red Cross lifesaving course, a mile swim, a demonstration in skin diving, and a social were among the highlights of the year. Club officers were Larry Anthon, president; Gary Anthon, vice-president; Sue Anderson, secretary; Nanette Tout, treasurer; and Vic Jensen, advisor.

A Western theme, complete with boots and hats, they lassoed pleasure and education with only one toss. Top hands were Mike Ford, president; Toni Taggart, vice-president; Arlene Thompson, secretary; Linda Johnson, historian; and Joan Phippen, reporter. Their activities, including rodeos, horse shows, outings, and ranch trips, brought them to a deeper appreciation of the outdoors.

SKI CLUB

Weekend excursions provided Ski Club members with the opportunity for association with other enthusiasts of the sport. Working together, members swished, skittered, and raced down the snowy slopes at Brighton and Park City competing for the Rose and Knudsen Cups. Officers included: Jerel McQuarrie, Jim Pitcher, Kristi Campbell, and Nanette Tout.

GIRLS' AND BOYS' ASSOCIATIONS

The Girls' and Boys' Associations have gone out of their way this year to concoct various means of enlightening entertainment for their members. Among the special features have been wildlife films and acrobatic exhibitions for the boys; fashion shows and guest speakers for the girls. Together, these leagues organized and presented the girl's choice dance and assembly in March, themed "Somewhere Over the Rainbow."

VISTAUNS

With the command of "Attention, forward march!" 22 sparkling, precisioned marchers filed onto the floor. With the downbeat of the main theme, the Vistauns became as one flowing body, performing their routine with high, matched kicks, precisioned turns, and unequaled unity for the delight of halftime audiences. Enthusiasm greeted them as they performed throughout the state. There were long weary hours of practice, speeches and criticism, laughs and exasperations before their performances were perfection. Officers were Sydney Theurer, Carolyn Read, Lola Jenkins, and Kathleen Hall.

GERMAN CLUB

Starting off the year with an opening social highlighted by wurstchen and sauerkraut, the German Club set out to learn more about Germany's culture and people. To increase school spirit (and their treasury), ambitious members sold cookies in the hall before the state tournament. They topped off a successful and productive year with a festive banquet. Officers of this enthusiastic organization were: Mills Johnson, Bonnie Budge, Kathy Milligan, and Judy Ann Loosli.

SCIENCE CLUB

With Reed Kirkland as president; Douglas Linford, vice president; Kay Haslem, secretary; and Mike Bankhead as reporter, the Science Club inspired its members to meet the challenge of tomorrow's laboratory. They explored the intricacies of science, crossed another horizon, made a contribution, and emerged as better citizens.

ATHLETICS

"A CHALLENGE TO TRIUMPH"

"Let's go!" The team broke from the huddle and jogged forward to the line of scrimmage. From the sidelines echoed frenzied throbbing cries of the spectators. Glancing quickly over both lines, the quarterback barked, "5-4 defense . . . ready . . . set . . . hut . . . hut . . . The line crashed forward, a surging tide of blue, white, and gold. "Where's that hole! Ah, there!" The back is through the line and running. Twisting and swerving agily he evades tacklers. The sharp crack of a crisp tackle snaps through the air. He's over! It's a touchdown—and a victory! Our first sports season had begun. From the studentbody, the coaching staff, and the athletes themselves, superiority was demanded—and received. We watched teams set traditions and records—working, straining, heaving, and aching. We watched coaches build teams—teams that would work together, applaud the performance of a team-mate, share the disaster of a close defeat. All could not actively participate, but each could support, and support we did. We were behind them, we pulled, we anticipated. We shared the precision of a double play, the tense seconds of a photo-finish, the hush on a foul try, the groans and catcalls at a referee's whistle, and the rhythmic chanting of the crowd. We wanted victory, but not at any price, for we played hard but we always played fairly. Win, lose, or draw, Sky View produced champions.

"When the going gets tough, the tough get going," could easily be the motto of the Sky View football team. Outweighed but never outplayed, this team gave to an enthusiastic studentbody the first taste of victory. From beginnings in the mud and frost of early morning pre-school practices to the last game, this team was a package of dynamite tied in a short fuse. Exploding into action, our backs, fleet and agile, became the best in the region and the spirit of the line made its lack of size insignificant as they held four opponents scoreless. Sky View's crisp blocking, steel-jacketed tackles, and quick-thinking action won our team recognition and respect from spectators as well as opponents. The team won second place in Division One. Then six individuals gained top honors by becoming "All Region" and one achieved "All State" status. With such success Sky View became a gridiron power in Northern Utah.

. . . DEVELOPED THE SPEED AND AGILITY NECESSARY TO WIN A BERTH AT

Ivan Christensen
Coach

Our basketball players were a team in all ways. The guards, dynamos of human energy, performed slight of hand magic setting up plays. With confidence bred by true team spirit, aggressive and smooth forwards excelled and centers, full giants in spirit, served as pivot men for well-polished scoring drives. Placing the starting five on "All Region" teams and playing in the state tournament further proved our players' ability. They had the will to win!

AT THE STATE TOURNAMENT . . .

Sky View's first basketball team went to the State Tournament. Their first game was a heart-breaking loss to the State Champion Highland Rams 114-78. This combined score set a new record for the tournament and Sky View's 78 points would have beaten any other team in the northern division that day. Bouncing back, the team defeated the Region I champions, Bonneville 78-58. Tired and unable to sustain a scoring drive, we lost to Clearfield 69-57.

For hours the musky crunch of porous cinders echoed regularly as the Bobcat cindermen pounded around the oval in anticipation of the region crown. After years of training, then weeks of final practice, the extra strain, the added punch to see the javelin hurled that greater distance, seconds chopped off the dash time, an inch further in the jumping pit, and another honor for the Blue and White, excellence in track.

INTEREST FOR THE NATIONAL SPORT.

Paul Jeppeson knocks the dirt from his cleats before stepping to bat.

Down from the hook in the hall, out of the closet dusted, oiled and polished, to the diamond. All the triumph and sentiment of the national sport returned to spark the talented Bobcat dugout. The leather sphere cracked the sound barrier from the mound, suffered hemorrhage at the hands of the sluggers, and battered knot holes at the 350 mark. The sharp crack of a bat, and the slithering ball fielded from the slick grass and whipped to first so many times marked achievement for this year, and a lofty precedent for another.

ACTIVITIES

"A CHALLENGE TO ENTERTAIN"

The lights dim; with a mumbled prayer, tears brim in our eyes as Luke kneels at a bedside with bowed head—this, the climax of a brilliant performance by a rare talent. Our hearts cry out in sympathy for this character and a tear steals down one cheek; we try to cherish this moment we know can never be recaptured, but we care not that it can't be recaptured now, for we will always remember the dramatic perfection of this play. A crumpled piece of discolored crepe paper and a dog-eared dance card fall to the floor and with a deep sigh we stoop to retrieve these silent reminders of a perfect evening—a moment with someone special, now gone forever, but embedded in our minds, never to be forgotten. We stop a moment to peer into an empty classroom. The hour is late; the desks are disordered and papers litter the floor. A bruised gavel rests at a place of honor on the front desk, and we know that the important matters of a club meeting have just taken place. A boy, mounted upon a tricycle, emerges from the wings of the stage as a song about some leaders of a laundromat shrieks from the speakers. Uproarious laughter nearly drowns the noise of the record player and the audience is barely able to retain composure until the pantomime is over. This, the beginning . . . a challenge met . . . a precedent set . . . a goal to look forward. With each dramatic performance, or assembly, or dance, we rose to a new awareness of life—an awareness outside of a textbook or lecture, an awareness we knew only as we laughed, as a tear stole down a cheek, as dim silhouettes whirled on the wings of romantic music, as a battered gavel took the place of honor. We knew a side of life that played on our emotions; and we shall always remember those moments.

HOMECOMING . . . WELCOMED ALUMNI, BROUGHT BACK MEMORIES, SE

Queen Christine Norman received a traditional kiss from her escort, Bruce Obray at the dance, "Dawning of a New Day."

Radiant Christine reigned with grace and beauty over Homecoming activities.

Summer stole away into the shadows; autumn made a quiet entrance, breathed a sigh, and settled. The season brought football, color and memories—memories of moments and events, memories of friendships, memories we wanted to cherish forever. Homecoming brought back the people who shared those memories; the people who made those memories so important. Amid a dreamland of tiered fountains and lovely gardens, we shared with the alumni the reflection over the wonderful thoughts of those never-to-be-forgotten days of high school—days brimming with joy and hope and sorrow and triumph. Homecoming brought back those golden memories that filled our hearts. Beauty reigned as Queen Christine Norman; 1st attendant Dian McBride; and 2nd attendant Joyce Bingham watched over the events of a first and wonderful homecoming.

The band shared their marching talent at half-time. Sky View was victorious 14-6.

"DEAR AND GLORIOUS PHYSICIAN" . . . MOVINGLY RECONSTRUCTED ST

Keptah tried to convince Luke after Rubria's death that "death . . . is a part of the plan we can't hope to understand."

"I really do feel better Luke. The sun is warm and it is spring once again."

"You musn't grieve, Luke. I am content and I will not be parted long from you and my father."

"You mustn't grieve, Luke. I am content and I will not be parted long from you and my father."

"He is called Samos after the isle on which he was born."

"God has condemned me to this painful death as my punishment for my part in his execution," explained Priscus.

Arieh, kidnapped when he was a baby, met his sister, Sara, for the first time.

ST. LUKE'S SEARCH FOR GOD . . .

Iris, Luke's mother contemplated his departure to Athens.

Joseph and Sara asked Luke's aid in finding her lost brother, Arieh.

Pillars, a stone bench, and a garden portico transcended the oceans and the centuries to carry the epic memory of a dream, a gospel, and a physician. The lovely and beautiful taken by the silent death in the courtyard of Antioch. A young lad, purged with the bitter desire for revenge to the Gods, began in agony to search for truth. In his quest the tyranny of the legions, the burning sands of Palestine, miles and years of healing, searching, praying, for a lost faith. The welcome and comfort of Priscus did not stay his determination. With reverent step in grief, he walked, supported by Diodorus, taught by Keptah, encouraged by Sarah, sustained by the noble Samos, with hope, in bitterness, and final humility to Jerusalem, to Mary, the Mother of Jesus. The end of a modern search, the beginning of an ancient book, a steady voice, and a sobbing heart. With the scratching of a humble quill, the final curtain fell. The robes and gowns were gathered; the pillars were taken down; the statue removed. The actors departed, the lights were dimmed. Tenderly caressing their mended wounds, the tearful audience withdrew. Then the whitened doctor retired from the empty stage never to return, but his fond memory and restored faith shall live on in the hearts and mind of many patients, the associates, the director, a happy memory of "Dear and Glorious Physician."

Ellen Grunig patiently tolerated grease paint and eye shadow.

Marianne Parson, Carol Thatcher, student director; Kathryn Mather, and Mrs. Carlson, checked last-minute details before the final performance. Not pictured were student directors Mary Lou Thornley, Ellen Baer, Maridee Bodily.

Following the final performance, the cast presented Mrs. Carlson, director, with a silver platter. Connie Leishman and Carol Thatcher look on.

The Von Trapp Family sang "Do Re Mi" in the concert hall before their escape to Switzerland.

"THE SOUND OF MUSIC"

... IMPRESSED US THROUGH DRAMA AND SONG ...

A young girl, unable to adjust to the life of an abbey, takes a position as governess to the seven children of a retired navy captain. She discovers that they are unhappy products of rigorous discipline and begins to transform them into happy, normal children. She is free to influence them as she pleases for their father, since his wife's death, has left them to be raised at the hands of a housekeeper and numerous other governesses, whom the children tortured immeasurably. The captain leaves them often, and upon returning from one of these many trips, finds seven vivacious children instead of the marching machines he left. He resents the intervention of the governess into their personal lives and tells her so. With bruised feelings, she returns to the abbey where she plans to become a nun; but, finally facing the fact that she is using the abbey as an escape from life, soon returns to care for the children she has grown to love so much. After her arrival, she finds that the love she has been afraid of—between the captain and herself—is a reality and they are married in the midst of a German aunchlass. The captain is unable to sacrifice his principles to save his home and takes his bride and family to the abbey where they hide, in preparation for an escape to Switzerland. The chance arrives and they begin a journey to freedom with a smile, a tear, and "The Sound of Music."

Mother Abess (Vikki Fowler) married Mario (Sharon Davis) and Captain Von Trapp (Ned Parker.)

"You're not afraid of a thunderstorm are you? Maybe if we all sing loud enough we won't hear it," comforted Maria (Sharon Davis.)

... HIGHLIGHTED A SUCCESSFUL YEAR FOR THE VOCAL DEPARTMENT ...

Frau Schmidt (Linda DeGraff) and Maria (Janice Larsen) shed a tear following the finale.

With Captain Von Trapp absent, the children didn't have to act as if they were "marching machines."

Final performance, the children, as well as the rest of the cast, displayed emotion.

The Von Trapp Family sang a last farewell before they began their journey to freedom.

Accompanists Loa Balazs, Ann Bischoff, Betty Chadwick and Judy Loosle accentuated the perfection of the "Sound of Music." Student Directors Kay Haslem and Pauline Van Dyke; Assistant Directors Meredith Smith and Ilene Thornley; and Directors Stratford Loosle and Linda Schneider correlated the performances of two casts. Choreography on a new stage and costumes of all sizes extended that wonderful sound successfully.

HARVEST BALL . . . MADE A "LUCKY DAY" ONE OF REMEMBRANCE.

The lazy sun-filled days of summer breathed a last farewell—leaving behind the tranquil autumn, set against a dying sun. The season stimulated our desire to find the perfect day—the perfect moment—the perfect someone to share it with. We found that day and moment and someone on Friday the 13th; all could truly say, "This Is My Lucky Day."

King Steve Chambers and Queen Darlene Taylor, center; Paul Parker and Sherrie Stephens, first attendants; and second attendants Kathryn Mather and Brad Low gaily reigned over "It's Christmas Time Again."

CHRISTMAS DANCE . . . EXHIBITED SOPHOMORE CAPABILITIES.

Sue and Bill exchange Christmas "greetings."

The light tinkling of silver bells floated faintly upon the air; songs of yuletide and good cheer—these the sounds of Christmas. The season of mistletoe and holly, of cold fascination—we observed the season—and, "It's Christmas Time Again," added the crowning touch.

The "dream people" for the Girl's Choice Dance were: Dennie Hill, Kris Seamons, Mike Brown, Marilyn Farrell; Brent Lundberg, Sharon Davis.

GIRLS' CHOICE DANCE

... TOOK US "SOMEWHERE OVER THE RAINBOW."

Couples wandered under a pasted rainbow and admired a romantic garden scene at the Girls' Choice Dance.

JUNIOR PROM

Beautiful girls draped in soft shades of flowing chiffon and satin whirled beneath a blue sky in the arms of admiring escorts as the dreamy, romantic music transported them to a "paradise so rare." A gentle decor of blue and white satin, veiled in billowing angel hair, and tiered fountains set the theme for the Junior Prom, "We're Almost There." Ascending to her throne, Queen Flora Dee Hill reigned with her lovely court: Charlene Leatham, Kris Seamons, Karen Petersen, and Kris Smith.

SENIOR PROM

Through a veil of tears we'll always remember the last dance — the enchantment under a blue heaven engulfed in a sea of satin and adorned with majestic white pillars. Faces were brimming with rapture and joy, but a strange sadness filled the hearts of many; for them, this evening marked the final point of a rewarding experience. The coronation completed the evening; King and Queen Bob Carlson and Karen Seamons, 1st attendants Janice Larsen and Bob Wadley, 2nd attendants Julie Bartschi and Larry West, reigned with grace and dignity. At the magic stroke of twelve, the night we had dreamed about for so long departed — leaving behind a memory, a kiss, a tear, and . . . Softly As I Leave You.

ASSEMBLIES

. . . BROUGHT RELAXATION, ENTERTAINMENT - - SET TRADITIONS.

The Homecoming assembly brought back humorous memories of years past.

Sharon Davis, Marilyn Jones, and Meredith Smith entertained us.

Julie Dunkley, Peg Carlson, Karen Seamons, Syd Theurer, and Liz Theurer performed an enthusiastic can-can on the Business Club Assembly.

The desire for relaxation from the usual routine filled our auditorium to near-capacity many times throughout the year. Inspired talent walked across the stage with entertainment we shall never forget—entertainment which built a strong tradition. We caught a glimpse of serious drama during performances of the play and operetta; classes and clubs showed us the lighter side of entertainment; lyceums held a special cultural treat for those who viewed them. Toni Hansen's hula, Bart Weston's songs, Craig Morrison's antics, and Larry West's narratives bring back memories of the many assemblies that provided, from beginning to end, the enjoyable distraction we all sought.

The FTA assembly found Craig Morrison frantically leading a golden-voiced quartet.

Janice Reed and Larry West gave Craig Morrison some much-needed advice on dating etiquette.

Cheerleaders Julie Bartschi, Kris Smith, and Marcia Meyers stirred up some school spirit during a pep rally.

The Blue Streaks themed their assembly around Valentine's Day.

Carol Thatcher pantomimed "I'm Just Looking for Love."

The FTA assembly pictured our faculty "after hours."

At a football rally, the Ciels staged an exciting race to determine the victorious team.

Coach Oliverson encouraged students to support the team during football season.

Mike Budge and Dan Stowell performed an intricate marching routine on the Key Club-Vistaun assembly.

ASSEMBLIES . . . RELEASED US FROM AN HOUR OF SCHOOL . . .

Richard Hansen sang about pretty girls on the Key Club-Vistaun assembly.

Mary Jo Hansen, Marilyn Jones, and Kathy Hansen sang a medley of songs on the Sophomore Pep Club assembly.

State Debate

We began. There were obstacles to overcome, problems to solve. The newness, the bigness caught us unaware, we held our breath—for too long a time perhaps. We watched and participated as a studentbody quickly united — strengthened old friendships and made new and lasting ones, entertained themselves and others, and became aware of the complexities of life through study. We watched and with the help of a staff tried to capture the joys, heartbreaks, hopes, and dreams of a studentbody. Without the help and understanding of many people, our task would have been a very difficult one. We would especially like to express our thanks to . . . The administration, particularly Mr. Webb; the faculty, and Executive Council; for their understanding and cooperation.

. . . Our advisers, Mrs. Grubic, Mrs. Jensen, and Mr. Benson for risking their peace of mind allowing us to miss every deadline.

. . . Community Press, printer of the Aurora; and Mr. Bob Rollins for his unending patience and our cover design.

. . . Stan Hobson for his photography.

. . . Our advertisers for their support.

. . . And our staff — Linda DeGraff, Robert Mouritsen, Larry Anthon, Jim Kofoed for the hours they put in helping with copy; Bill Richardson and his trusty camera; Jerry Low, Warren Cook, and Tom Stoddard who willingly and cheerfully helped with photography in our times of need; Glade Myler, Jean Stauffer, and Neil Whiting for their able handling of the business department; and Theodora Gibb and Jerry Budge for their assistance as associate editors.

Our job is complete, a beginning has been recorded, the first Aurora has gone to press. We can finally clean out the Publications Room and go—overjoyed that we are finished at last.
