

April 2022

Dear Families:

As we head into April, it is great to reflect on the past month and all of the amazing things happening in the high school. From our specialty concerts, volunteer opportunities, challenger basketball, multicultural night, carnival night, science competitions, Pi Day, the start of spring sports, and finally our career day for juniors... we are living the district mission every day!

We also had an evening presentation by the Nassau County District Attorney’s Office entitled, “Choices and Consequences” This sobering talk is a reminder of the challenges that our students face and the choices that can impact their lives, both positively and negatively. We are lucky here that Mineola High School is a small community where we all know each other. We also have terrific students, parents, faculty, and staff who support each other. These factors enable us to do our work effectively and identify problems early and get those who need help, assistance when they need it. In the coming month, we have additional assemblies planned in the area of mental health awareness.

As you can see by the length of this newsletter, there is a lot to celebrate / talk about! Remember that in addition to this monthly newsletter, our website (www.mineola.k12.ny.us) and Twitter account (@mineolahs) continue to keep you up to date with the latest news and “happenings” in and around the high school; including many of the exciting and new lessons, projects, and activities that your children are engaging in. We encourage you to follow us if you don’t already!

I would also like to thank all of the families that were able to make it to parent-teacher conferences. We hope that you enjoyed meeting with your child’s teachers as well as the convenience of either doing so in the comfort of your own home or in person. We value the home-school relationship and want to remind you that if you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact your child’s teachers or school counselor.

Some students are working on making a "independent research tool kit" while others are working on redesigning the science research classroom! Exciting things happening in science research this month!
- The RISE program had an exciting month celebrating St. Patrick's Day and Spring. Our Unique curriculum has focused on studying weather and how energy from the sun affects all aspects of our lives. Our AAC users are working hard on making sure their messages are heard and understood by their communication partners. Many of the RISE students participated in the Challenger Basketball League. Their dedication had them practicing as well as participating in interscholastic and intramural basketball games. Every game played was in front of a packed house of family and friends supporting all their hard work. A huge shout to all the people that helped make this a memorable season for these student athletes. Every day we celebrate the progress each student makes - it doesn't matter how small it may seem to others, but to us it is always a reason to celebrate!
- In Mrs. Levine and Ms. Gross's 11th grade English classes, learners have just finished a unit of study on Alienation. Throughout the unit, they built a deeper understanding of the impacts of alienation on individuals. Through music, they were able to identify different ways people can be or feel alienated. Learners were given the choice to research how mental health impacts alienation and the feelings associated with it, and were challenged to create one pagers to display their information. After gaining a deeper understanding and exploring how alienation appears in their book club books, learners discussed and experienced different coping strategies such as meditation and yoga.

Housing Instability

By Lauretina Gloria

Frequently moving and unpredictable living situations are examples of housing instability.

Causes	Symptoms	Alienation
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Poverty Military Family Divorce Foster Care Abuse 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Difficulty forming lasting relationships Unhealthy attachment to material items Anxiety Fear of abandonment 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Fear of being judged Unique/unfavorable living situations Unfamiliar towns

The issue of housing instability results in feelings of alienation in individuals who experience it. People who experience this may miss out on educational opportunities, have trouble committing to future relationships and lack the safety of a stable home. This form of alienation causes individuals to feel anxious knowing they might be forced to leave again.

Depression can be treated and cause alienation, if someone is diagnosed and left to their own devices which can get someone into depression. Also, with depression most people tend to isolate themselves to cope.

DEALING WITH DEPRESSION

Depression is a serious mental health condition that affects people from all walks of life. If you have symptoms, please seek help as there are many treatment options available.

Depression can lead to feelings of alienation for individuals who have this mental health disorder. It can be a very isolating disorder and can cause you to feel alone, but there are many ways to get help. You can seek help from your doctor, therapist, or even people you trust, but you need to take the first step and reach out. They may have different feelings of sadness, pain, or hopelessness, and even though it's hard to talk to your friends and family, many people can help.

YOUR MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

- "Creativity is now as important in education as literacy" -Sir Ken Robinson
- 8th Grade English learners are working on One Pagers to showcase their creativity while analyzing themes in Harper Lee's To Kill A Mockingbird. We studied themes such as prejudice, racism, childhood, friendship, growing up, poverty, empathy, and courage. Learners showcased the importance of a chosen theme in the novel and in the world today. Our learners are embracing choice while making their projects completely unique to incorporate the elements of the novel they understand the best.

- Congratulations to Ria Thomas, who was selected as a 2022 Long Island Youth Summit Finalist! Ria's AP Seminar research focuses on the impact of hyper-fragmentation on the diversity of real estate markets and school districts.
- AP Seminar students prepare for their Performance Task 2 presentations which will kick off prior to Spring Break. Topics are thematically linked to this year's stimulus material which focuses on ritualistic synchrony within various cultures. Organizations that promote or engage in ritualistic synchrony regularly tend to form strong bonds between members but at the expense of independent thought and creative thinking.

- The Entrepreneurship class has engaged in a guest speaker series in class where they interact with career professionals in business. This year to date, they've had visits from Paige Dunn (Trade Marketing Manager/The Wonderful Company), Lenny Buccholtz (Mentor/SCORE), Mahmud Wazihullah (Business Professor/Mercy College, Louis Panacciulli (Music Director – Nassau Pops Symphony Orchestra and Mineola Chamber of Commerce President), Joel Harris (Joel Harris Photography and Mineola Chamber of Commerce Past President). Upcoming guest speakers scheduled include Nicole Crish (Merchandise Buyer/Saks off 5th Ave) and Rakesh Gupta (Business Professor/Adelphi University. Our future entrepreneurs enjoy interacting, asking questions and practicing important networking skills.

- Fine & Performing Arts - The department of Fine and performing Arts shared many examples of student work during March which functions as “Music in our Schools Month” and “Youth Art Month.” This time last year, we were busy planning and sharing what (thankfully) was our last virtual performances! When we return from our Spring Vacation, we will be sharing the links to the Nassau County All-County Art Exhibition, which will highlight Mineola’s finest young artists alongside many other incredible artists throughout the county, and we will be hosting an in-person district art show. Get ready for a busy spring season! When we return from April break we kick off the festivities with our 10-12 Musical “Dirty Rotten Scoundrels,” our district art shows, and then we go into concert season. With the exception of the 10-12 Musical with is April 29/30, all events are taking place as scheduled on the calendar. Looking ahead to May, we will be hosting NYSSMA Solo Festival, for which our Tri-M students will be busy functioning as ambassadors to the student performers from all over Nassau County.
- Library Media Center - The library has two new additions to spruce up the options available for students to engage with. We now have an Apple TV which gives us flexibility for presentations, displays, interactive collaborative games & apps and we have a dynamic Cricut machine which can be used to design cards, lettering and even logos for clothing designs to name a few!

April is national poetry month and the library has a few opportunities for students to submit their creative poems for chances to win national local and state contests.

1-Senator Anna Kaplan is sponsoring Earth day 2022. Students can submit their poetry, essay or artwork to show ways we can protect our Earth.

2- The Nassau County Library Association is running the 17th annual “freedom to read” essay and art/poetry contest: Students can submit their response to Getting past COVID- what story, book, or library experience gave you hope?

3-Students have the opportunity to submit their creative entries in the 25th annual National Student Poetry Contest. The poem must be NO MORE THAN 20 LINES on any subject, in any style except concrete (shape poems) or blackout, provided that the content of the poem is not vulgar or offensive, does not employ profanity, and is the original and individual work of the student. Sample topics include: Pride in America, friendship, feelings, nature, dreams, aspirations, or anything that inspires creativity. The America Library of Poetry is offering a $500 grand prize to students who submit and win with their entry. Participating teachers and schools also can receive awards for entering. Some 8th graders chose to create an artistic graph using circles, while some 9th graders chose to complete a Pi Day Escape the Room! Some upperclassmen even explored using the digits of Pi to create music! Prizes were awarded to students who completed various challenges! Teachers of all content areas joined in the fun and created their own activities as well.

The Logo Contest is coming to an end. We are looking forward to judging the “merch” logo entries and can’t wait to announce which lucky student will have their design on the PTSA “merch”! The Senior Scholarship Awards Committee is currently reviewing all the applications and will decide on the 10 winners shortly. The scholarship recipients will receive their awards in June at the Senior Awards Breakfast. The Staff Appreciation Committee is planning the luncheon which will take place on June 1 st. In addition to the luncheon we are planning a week long celebration of our staff along with a student/ teacher scavenger hunt. This will be the first week of May.
