From the Main Office

This week at Lynwood was all about reading. We are on week three of our PARP Month and every class is participating. This week's focus was on getting together and reading with friends. To do this, older students partnered up with our younger learners to help engage them in the love of reading.

St. Patrick's Day was a big hit here as well. Students entered the building and were greeted by our school leprechaun. He also paid a visit to our Kindergarten and First Grade classes and caused some mischief. Many classes tried to outsmart him with traps, but he got away again! We will try again next year. Nobody was upset though, and everyone celebrated with fun activities and class parties.

We are ending the week with our PTA's Glo-lingo. We are anticipating a great turnout for students to play BINGO and "glow in the dark".

Finally, Quackerjack himself came to visit to promote our Lynwood night at The Long Island Ducks game. On April 25, our chorus will perform during the seventh inning stretch and all students will be invited on the field during the National Anthem.
