Sachem Holiday Season Spotlight

Seneca Middle School students in the SADD Club recently created care packages for residents of local nursing homes.

As part of the students' collaborative efforts, they wrote thoughtful letters of hope and included items within the packages the residents would enjoy, such as word searches, crossword puzzles, coloring books, puzzles and blankets.

A recent study of a winter wonder in Cathy Dulovic's third grade class at Lynwood Avenue Elementary School led students on an exploration of snowflakes and their endless intricacies.

A recent activity in Christina Alfano's kindergarten class at Tamarac Elementary School joined literacy and technology for an engaging holiday-themed activity using Ozobots.

After reading "Not Enough Snow", students in Jaimie DiPalma's class at Cayuga Elementary School dived into a S.T.E.A.M. activity where they helped the character's snowy dreams come true.

Students at Nokomis Elementary School in Nancy McCormick's recently read different variations of "The Gingerbread Bread Man". Following the activity the students used beads to create a bracelet to "retell" the events in the story.

Sachem Student-Athletes Commit to Continue Athletics in College

A joyful culmination of hard work and dedication was on display as 20 Sachem High School student-athletes signed their national letters of intent on Dec. 9 and 10, committing to compete for a variety of prestigious athletic programs.

As part of the annual national letter of intent signing event which followed a collection of safety protocols, student-athletes participating in sports including baseball, basketball, field hockey, lacrosse and soccer committed to colleges across the country to showcase their athletic and academic prowess.

Throughout the duration of the signing ceremonies, masks were worn by all in attendance and only removed by the student-athlete and family members while photographs were taken.
